Secretary Or Scapegoat?

A recent study of the Department of State by the American Assembly noted that the first secretary, Thomas Jefferson, went on to become president. The next three presidents, Madison, Monroe, and John Quincy Adams, had also served as secretary of state.

Since that time, however, that distinguished office has not led to political advancement. The contrary is true. In the years following the first world war, the secretary of state increasingly has become a sort of scapegoat. The people resent the increase in serious, persisting problems. The conflict between the old image of U.S. omnipotence and the inability to resolve conflicts to our satisfaction is an irritant which ignores logic.

Once upon a time being secretary was relatively easy. This was before 1914. There then were few European states which, with us, were dominant. Their histories and cultures were mutually familiar. These empires had, in fact, allowed the United States to wax strong in peace, and without much responsibility for the keeping of it. Asia and Africa were colonies. China was disorganized. Her trade was under foreign control and the powers held special geographic concessions in which they and their laws were supreme.

Changes

That all this is drastically changed is apparent to all save those who somehow expect things to be always as they were. In a mere 15 years more than 25 new nations have emerged—with more on the way. Their histories and cultures are almost totally unknown. Indeed, they themselves often present a complexity of cultures within their own borders. However, they all have one thing in common—they differ in experience and attitudes, in economic status and political stability from the countries of Europe and North America.

When one adds to this the fact that the countries of these latter areas themselves are undergoing change, it then becomes easier to comprehend why foreign policy is a gigantic, all-absorbing task. The contest with the Soviet Union, which also is modifying its revolution and finding differences with the neighboring Marxist giant, China, is yet to be resolved. It has gained in prestige in the past eight years.

Yet, as the Assembly study noted, this world, so ravaged and shaken by the eruptions of change, becomes more inter-dependent. The welfare of even the stronger nations is involved with that of many others. Out of this really relentless struggle will emerge a world which, happily, is shrouded in the mystery of the future.

And that future, as a former able secretary of state, Dean Acheson, said, is "revealed to us a day at a time."

Struggle

It is in this shadowy, savage struggle that foreign policy must contend. And, since it is foreign, it must operate in geographic areas beyond our control. It functions best if our national prestige is strong, both militarily and in policy. It presently is not as strong as it was.

All this, of course, is known to the President-elect and his new State department appointees. Dean Rusk, who will become secretary, is fully aware he will be effective only as the President is able to rally and hold public support. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson will be able to contend with forces in the U.N. to attract allies to his cause only as the nation itself increases its prestige. The relationship between the two cannot be other than an intensely personal one.

This is why, as Dean Acheson has said in an excellent discussion of the office, the President and the secretary must have mutual respect, based on the conviction held by each that the other is "wholly straightforward, loyal and living up to his full obligation."

It will be helpful if the nation understands that neither the President nor the secretary may pass a miracle. By intelligence, hard work and luck they may succeed in improving our national posture.

Navy Investigates Carrier Disaster

NEW YORK—A Navy court of inquiry was set up Tuesday to find out why the fire that took 47 lives and did $75 million damage on the aircraft carrier Constellation spread so rapidly. It will look also for new ways of preventing such disasters.

Among the many witnesses at the open hearings, which begin Wednesday at the New York Naval Shipyard in Brooklyn, will be Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr., who has charged

Tick...Tick... Santa Helpers Call for Help

CHICAGO (UPI)—Santa Claus' helpers—the busy ones in the main post office here—had a bad hour Tuesday.

A postal worker was lifting an 11-ounce, brown-paper-wrapped parcel when it began to mutter: Tick-tick-tick.

He rushed it to a distant corner and called for help.

They decided to open it instead of tossing it into water. All personnel in the room stood back. The humming grew louder. They cautiously lifted the lid.

Inside lay a battery-powered electric shaver, working busily. They repacked it and sent it on its way—after cutting it off.

Snodgrass Named To Key GOP Body

Robert R. Snodgrass has been named a member of the executive committee of the Republican national committee, the first Georgian named to this committee in the 106-year history of the Republican Party.

Snodgrass, who also will continue to serve as national committeeman from Georgia, and the 13 other members of the executive committee will develop and guide policies of the Republican Party.

"The Republican Party here in Georgia is very highly elated that one of our members has been chosen for this important post," said W. B. Shartzer, state party head.

Shartzer noted that the 14-man executive committee now num-

U.N. Votes to Assess All Members for Congo

From Press Dispatches

The United Nations General Assembly, just before a Christmas adjournment, early Wednesday voted to make the cost of the U.N. Congo operation subject to assessment against all members of the world organization as a binding, legal obligation.

On the political side of the Congo picture, the assembly earlier rejected an Afro-Asian move to restore leftist Premier Patrice Lumumba and also refused to give a new endorsement to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's policies in the troubled country.

Thus the world parliament went into an 11-week recess until next March 7, taking no new action on the political aspects of the Congo problem.

But Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld announced immediately the vast U.N. Congo operation would be continued "with all energy."

Tuesday the United States and Britain lost out by a single vote on a resolution that some saw as a victory.

3-Car Crash On Freeway Injures 4

Four persons were injured Tuesday night in a three-vehicle crash on the Northwest Expressway near Moores Mill road, police said.

Olen O. Reger, 23, of 116 Sky View Dr., Marietta, and his wife, Mrs. Sarah Ann Reger, 20, were treated at Grady Hospital for head and body injuries. Patrolman C. L. Queen said.

Wilburn E. Cordell, 37, of 1015 Victoria Dr., College Park, was treated at Grady for injuries to the chest and knees. Alvin V. McWaters, 251 Walker St., Smyrna, suffered lacerations and bruises. Queen said he was told Reger was driving north on the Expressway when his car crossed over into the south-bound lane.

It struck a pickup truck driven by McWaters, knocking the truck into a ditch. Reger's car then collided head-on with an auto driven by Cordell.

The auto driven by Reger traveled 217 feet after crossing the center line, Queen said, and went 27 feet after the final collision with Cordell.

Reger and his wife were thrown

Job, Economic Drives In Congress Readied By Kennedy, Top Aides

Go Slow, Ask Wary Georgians

By MARION GAINES

Members of Georgia's congressional delegation Tuesday adopted a generally "go-slow" approach to President-elect Kennedy's promise that he will press Congress for speedy action on such items as aid for chronic unemployment areas and medical care for the aged.

The Georgians indicated great resistance will be made, however, to any attempts by Kennedy to induce the incoming Congress to approve legislation for federal aid to education.

STUDY PROMISED

"We will, of course, give very thorough consideration to any proposal made by the President-elect," said Sen. Russell.

An "appropriate bill providing medical care for the aged" might win support, Russell said. He added that he would oppose any "purely political bill" on assisting chronically jobless areas.

Among the Georgians, indications were that strongest support for Kennedy's proposals would come from Rep. J. L. Pilcher and strongest opposition from Rep. James C. Davis. Rep. Carl Vinson was relatively noncommittal.

"Let's wait until he makes his report to the Congress and take them up at the proper time," Vinson said.

READY WITH SUPPORT

Rep. Pilcher declared that "this country is in a recession" and that he would "support any sound program that will help get us back on the road to prosperity."

"When steel is only half-operating, when the small farmer is broke and when there are more bankruptcies in small business than at any time since 1932, then any proper program that will help relieve conditions, I'm going to be for," Pilcher said.

Rep. Davis said he doubted Kennedy's aid-to-education proposal would pass Congress.

"There's not a chance for us to get any of that money unless we integrate our schools," Davis said. "We'd just have to pay our part of the taxes to finance it, and get none of it back."

Davis appraised Kennedy's unemployment assistance proposal as "a spender's dream."

"GREATLY INTERESTED"

It would require "new printing presses to print the money necessary to finance it," he said.

On the other hand, he said, he has found his Georgia constituents to be "greatly interested in reductions in spending and taxes."

Rep. John J. Flynt indicated that changes would have to be made in some of Kennedy's proposals in order for him to support them.

"If the information I have received as to the content of some of

DETECTIVE SHOWS SOME OF MATERIAL SEIZED
Lt. Clinton Chafin Took Part in Downtown Raids

Books, Records Seized as Obscene

By KEELER McCARTNEY

Striking in simultaneous raids at news stands in Atlanta, vice squad detectives Tuesday seized a "truckload" of books, magazines and phonograph records which they classed as obscene.

The raids were conducted at seven news stands in the downtown section and were made in conjunction with the office of Fulton County Sol.-Gen. Paul Webb's office.

No arrests were made. Asst. Solicitor Tom Luck and Lt. Clinton Chafin of the vice squad said the literature will be exhibited before the Fulton County Grand Jury.

Chafin said vice squad detectives made purchases from open displays at the stand last week. Luck obtained search warrants Tuesday from Fulton Superior Court Judge Ralph Pharr and 11 detectives struck simultaneously at the stands.

At one news stand, the raiders called for two trays prisoners to help load the items seized into a patrol wagon.

Luck said one phonograph record seized was on sale at $6.98 and a number of others were priced at $5.98. Books, magazines and pamphlets were priced from 35 cents to $1 each.

Christmas in Early Georgia Yuletide Gifts Were Small ---But the Noises Were Big

the resin out of pine and cedar.

What they don't remember—or mention anyhow—is that Christmas wasn't Christmas in the South a decade or so ago without the biggest, noisiest explosions heard this side of the Meuse-Argonne. In the north people shot off Roman candles, pinwheels and poppers on the Fourth of July but Christmas was the day of fireworks in the South and no little boy felt that Santa Claus had done his due if he didn't leave behind a string of Chinese firecrackers. Sissies and little girls got sparklers, and fathers, to make the celebration suitably loud, often went out and fired pistols and shotguns.

In fact, in 1914 The Atlanta Constitution carried on its front page two proclamations—one from Police Chief J. L. Beavers warning young men against shooting firecrackers or firearms downtown, and one from Mayor J. G. Woodward declaring the day a holiday. (This was a small enough nod in the direction of merchants and their sales people who kept their stores open until midnight Christmas.)

Aged Care, Pay Floor Get Priority

By MERRIMAN SMITH

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—President-elect John F. Kennedy and his Democratic leaders Tuesday planned a drive in the new Congress for legislation of "particular importance" to meet the problems of rising unemployment and a sluggish national economy.

Kennedy assigned top importance to legislation covering an increased minimum wage, federal aid for areas of chronic unemployment, medical care for the aged, federal aid to education in the field of school construction and housing.

The President-elect concluded his two days of talks with Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson, House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, then turned to the next item on his agenda—an important conference here Wednesday on federal finances.

Kennedy's press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy would have an announcement Wednesday morning of a "sub-Cabinet member" appointment. He declined to give any hint of the department involved.

The President-elect, Salinger said, also plans to have "some comment" on the timing of his resignation from his Senate seat. Kennedy is "extremely pleased" that Massachusetts Gov. Foster Furcolo has decided to appoint Benjamin A. Smith II, his longtime friend and former mayor of Gloucester, Mass., to succeed him in the Senate.

Kennedy and the three leaders wound up their conversations in a four-way press conference in the breezy patio of the President-elect's coastal villa. The budget conferees, including David E.

Russell, Vinson Advise A Cautious McNamara

Defense Secretary-designate Robert S. McNamara, after conferring with Georgia's Sen. Russell and Rep. Vinson, ruled out Tuesday any immediate drastic shakeup in the U.S. defense setup.

McNamara told newsmen in Washington, D.C., after a 40-minute conference with Vinson, that he first wants to study the possible need for defense reorganization.

Sen. Russell, chairman of the powerful Senate Armed Forces Committee, told The Constitution from his home at Winder that he was happy to hear of McNamara's decision to "proceed cautiously."

"He impressed me as being a very prudent man," Russell said of McNamara.

From Washington, Rep. Vinson, influential chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, told The Constitution that he's "in accord with the views" expressed Tuesday by McNamara.

"He sees no need for a drastic shakeup, and neither do I," said Vinson. "That's something we should approach slowly and with caution."

Vinson was understood to have advised McNamara against rushing into any large military reorganization, especially one as sweeping as that laid before

Russia Trims Arms Budget, Boosts Missiles

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union Tuesday announced a new 1961 budget slashing defense expenditures "considerably" but raising the outlay for scientific research by 15.6 per cent. It promised workers more jobs and higher "real wages."

Garbuzov declared that expenditures for maintaining Russia's armed forces would be reduced in 1961 to 11.9 per cent of the budget. This, he said, compared with 12.9 per cent in 1960 and 15.6 per cent in 1959.

U.S. Orbits Satellite With Missile Spotter

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Heat-sensing devices to help future Midas satellites spot enemy missiles whizzed into orbit Tuesday aboard a 2,100-pound satellite.

Discoverer XIX carried no recoverable capsule, like its predecessors.

In its place was a payload of electronic gear to measure the earth's normal heat radiation. Any flashes of heat above this normal level—such as the firing of an intercontinental missile—will be detected by infra-red "eyes" in upcoming Midas (missile defense alarm system) space craft.

EGG-SHAPED COURSE

Fired southward from its sea-side pad at 12:37 p.m. (3:37 p.m. Atlanta time). Discoverer's 25-foot second stage rocket, all of which went into orbit, was picked up by Alaskan tracking stations at 2:04 p.m.

The Air Force said the satellite was whizzing around the earth's poles once every 93 minutes in an egg-shaped course that takes it as far out as 400 miles. At the closest point Discoverer XIX is 130 miles above the earth.

The Air Force said earth-heat levels detected by the satellite will be sent back by radio. Its battery-powered instruments are expected to operate at least four days.

MONKEY TO RIDE

Some future Discoverers will carry a recoverable capsule and at least one is expected to contain a monkey, sampling the hazards man will meet in orbit.

The Air Force declines to say when the monkey launch is scheduled, but observers expect it soon.

Three of the last six Discoverer capsules have been caught in the air near Hawaii by planes and a fourth was taken from the Pacific undamaged.

Tuesday's satellite was boosted into orbit by a 150,000-pound-thrust Thor missile built by Douglas Aircraft Co. The second stage, called Agena B, was built by Lockheed.

13 Pct. Dip in Cars to Jolt Economy, U.S. Says

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government forecast a 13 per cent drop in auto production next year and emphasized this will put a damper on the entire economy.

In its annual outlook summary, the Commerce department Tuesday said 1961 output will total about 5,800,000 autos compared with the 1960 total of 6,700,000. It added that the decline will have the greatest impact in the first half of 1961.

The forecast, portending the first production drop since the 1957-58 recession, was based on big dealer inventories—about one million unsold cars; the unemployment situation, and unsettled business conditions.

However, the department said that even with a 13 per cent output decline, 1961 would be a good year for the auto industry. It said sales will be helped by a "favorable public attitude, high personal income, the continued trend toward suburban living, better roads and adequate financing."

In a special statistical table, the department gave a four-year breakdown showing that automobile sales have exerted a strong influence on the gross national product, the broadest measure of economic activity. The table showed that every decline in auto output went hand in hand with a general economic decline and vice versa.

While the prospective 1961 drop in unit production is distinctly bearish, the report pointed out, still another dampening factor was the increased share of the market being claimed by compact cars.

Whereas the compacts, which use fewer raw materials, accounted for 30 per cent of 1960 production, the department forecast a jump to 35-40 per cent next year. This would mean an even sharper drop than 13 per cent in the industry's use of raw materials.

The report said that while compacts have hurt sales of larger autos, they have won most of their market "from the steadily growing number of families requiring more than one car and from those families normally purchasing a late model domestic used car or import."

Another result of domestic compact popularity has been a sharp drop in sales of foreign autos. The report said imports were down about 25 per cent this year, to 400,000 units, and will decline further in 1961.

The department said compacts use about 35 per cent less steel than the average conventional model and their smaller tires require 10 per cent less rayon.

"Total 1960 steel consumption in the manufacture of passenger cars is expected to amount to 1.4 million tons less than if all production had been conventional cars," the report said.

Germans Capture Eichmann Cohort

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Richard Baer, last commander of the Nazi "death factory" at Auschwitz and presumed dead until a few weeks ago, was arrested Tuesday in a village woodcutter's house. He was a henchman of Adolf Eichmann, who awaits trial in Israel as a mass exterminator of Jews under Hitler.

Baer's capture was announced by Frankfurt Chief Prosecutor Heinz Wolf, who indicated more arrests may follow.

Baer, 49, an ex-major of the SS Elite Guard, was apprehended at Dasselndorf, southeast of Hamburg, where he had been working as a master lumberman under the alias of Neumann. Wolf said detectives acted on a tip from neighbors.

A warrant had been issued last October shortly after authorities learned Baer was alive and hiding. The warrant recites he is suspected of an unspecified number of murders in the gas chamber deaths of Auschwitz inmates, mostly Jews.

Wolf heads the entire German investigation into the Auschwitz slaughters. Sixteen former members of the SS Guard already are in custody.

All of them worked under Eichmann, whose Israeli trial is scheduled to open March 6.

Dasselndorf—the village where Baer was arrested—is about 30 miles north of Altensalzkoth, where Eichmann worked under an alias as a lumberjack after the war. He later moved to Argentina, where he was captured and secretly taken to Israel.

Baer commanded Auschwitz from May 1944 to January 1945. He and his men abandoned the vast camp to escape the Soviet army advancing in Poland.

Police entering his small wooden house on the edge of the forest at Dasselndorf found him alone. His sole companion was a pet jackdaw bird.

Some sources said Mrs. Baer, 38, a blonde, had also been arrested, but this could not be confirmed late Tuesday.

Chattanooga Offers To Integrate 3 Grades

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—The city school board Tuesday proposed to begin limited integration in the first three grades of the city school system at the start of the 1962 school year.

The desegregation plan was filed to meet a deadline set by U.S. District Judge Leslie R. Darr.

The board proposed to admit Negroes to selected schools, to be announced by next Oct. 1, and desegregation of an additional grade per year each year through high school.

In addition, it said, there might be desegregation in what it termed "special programs" and other schools before the system is integrated completely.

The judge has said he will hear arguments on such a plan Jan. 9.

Darr refused last Wednesday to delay the deadline for submission of the desegregation plan pending an appeal by the school board to the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati.

Threatened by Blindness, Girl, 14, Meets A Near-Tearful Friend—Gov. Patterson

By REX THOMAS
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A grateful school-girl, threatened with blindness, saw a dream come true Tuesday—a longed-for meeting with the governor who once extended a helping hand to bring her family together.

Gov. John Patterson, joking to hide the tears, welcomed Wyona Griffith, 14, to his office and thanked her for a pair of cuff links she brought him as a Christmas gift.

"I sure appreciate that," the governor said. "You're mighty nice to give me a Christmas present."

Wyona, almost overcome with emotion herself, replied simply, "I think it's a privilege that I can see you."

The Attalla, Ala., seventh-grader's condition attracted nationwide attention earlier this year when she asked Patterson in a letter to help find her father a job in Alabama so he could be with her.

She said he had to leave his home to find work and was employed at that time in West Virginia.

"It's so lonesome without a daddy. It's almost like he's dead," she wrote.

The governor sent the request to the State Employment Service and a short time later the father, James C. Griffith, returned home to work in a steel plant at Gadsden, near Attalla.

Eddie BarkerThe Words of a Fireman Serve
As Memorial to Gerald Elrod

Sounds of screaming sirens led curious thrill-seekers through the streets of the city and once the feel of flames were on their upturned faces they watched as firemen from seven companies battled a three-alarm blaze. A condemned three-story rooming house at 1001 West Peachtree St. was burning as if to make up for axes of men who failed to meet a Nov. 9 deadline to have the building razed or repaired. Now, in the early hours of night, the fire was feeding itself on a rotted roof. Inside the old house a man lay dead. But nobody knew it then.

There were those in the crowd of 5,000 who continued to ask, "Is there anybody in that thing?" Every now and then a fireman would rush past, his slicker wet with water, and answer, "We don't know for sure. We don't think so, though."

Gerald Randolph Elrod, 46, had been a tenant at 1001 West Peachtree but a short time. He had been working as a shoe salesman only a few weeks.

It was only a little after 8 p.m. when Elrod found the fire. He rushed around, yelling "fire," and pounding on doors. On the second floor James Harris, 32, was already asleep.

Elrod pounded and pounded, shouting, "The building is on fire."

Harris hopped up and hurried out. In the street he looked back; a spectator now.

All around him the firemen were working. At a three-alarm blaze everyone is busy.

"It could be worse," said a fireman, "It could be raining and it could be a lot colder."

Officers in red hats saw to it that equipment was pushed to proper places. When the long ladders were run up, to their very tops went the red hats, followed by firefighters. Every now and then a blaze would light them brightly against the night but moments later they would disappear behind thick, black smoke.

Blue-helmeted fighters were all around and occasionally out of the night would come a white hat. They are the chiefs, sharp-eyed, who see what should be done and do it.

"A fireman's life," said a cornered chief, "sometimes looks easy to other people. Sitting around. And it sometimes looks easy to us. But when the alarm goes, and you have to hit the floor, there's never any way to know what to expect."

Hoses were being handled by professionals and by 9:30 there was no doubt that the fire would be controlled and that the neighborhood was not in danger.

But the flames had done their damage. Fear had been in the hearts of many about this old building, and others, and the city had branded it a firetrap. Old ladies, children, rousted out on this mean night, were displaced while the fires flamed. Fear was fanned by the breeze.

Who can say if Gerald Elrod was frightened as he ran from room to room, coming to Jimmy Harris' pounding on door, shouting, "The building is on fire." And know he could not flee the flames.

Firemen, fighting past still smoldering ashes, found the man's badly burned body sprawled on the stairway. The spent hosemen are not given to dramatics, but the words of one, as the body was brought out and he heard that Elrod had lost his life to save one, makes a memorial:

"I guess," the fireman said, "that here is a hero."

Vernon S. Broyles Jr.Best of All Gifts:
A Happy Marriage

If you are happily married, you may skip this column. You have life's most precious gift. Cherish it. If you are unhappily married, this Christmas is a good time to remedy the situation. So many couples get divorces and others just put up with bad situations. This is tragedy and where there are children the tragedy is complete.

No one can deal with life as a minister does without knowing that for some situations there seems no solution. However, the number of these is small. Most couples don't find happiness together because they don't want to do the things necessary for it. Having promised love and fidelity "till death do us part," they just run out on their word. Men and women forget that once they were married, they are obligated to find happiness in and with one another. Where there are children, a couple has an added obligation.

If your home is failing to provide the wonderful blessing that marriage can bring, I would suggest that you give one another the greatest Christmas present in the world—love.

1. You will have to make up your minds to do it. Most of the reasons for divorce are excuses. Most of the marital unhappiness is caused by things that can be remedied if you want to.

give your trespasses as you forgive the one who has trespassed against you. Be honest with yourself before God. Be willing to make the first move toward understanding.

3. Accept God's forgiveness.

4. Ask God to help you love one another. "Beloved, if God so loved us we ought to love one another."

5. After your prayer, if you have anything to say to one another, say it. If not, don't.

6. Repeat this each evening.

7. On Sunday, go to church together. Pray, sing, listen. Go willing for God to work in your lives. Don't force anything. Just go with open heart and mind. Go each Sunday. Find a church that meets your need. Join it.

These steps won't solve all your problems. They will connect your lives with God, the source of love. Without this, you can solve all your problems and still be no closer together. This Christmas, receive God's love in His Son and share this love with one another. No child will thrill to the Christmas season as you will in the glow of love given and received.

Celestine SibleyLandlords Haven't Improved
Public Relations in 2,000 Years

The landlord, whether it was his fault or not, emerged as the villain of the first Christmas story. Maybe there really wasn't any room in the inn but if he'd had any kind of heart in his breast or even a decent public relations man on his staff, he'd never, never allowed that little Baby to be born in the barn. He'd have given up his own room first or moved out of the presidential suite that fat couple with the retinue of servants. But he turned Mary and Joseph away and for 20 centuries the world has known him as the man who had no room for the Baby Jesus.

Landlords still haven't improved their public relations appreciably. Civil Court of Fulton County issued 1,441 dispossession warrants last month and a clerk told me the number has stepped up considerably this month. With Christmas Day just over the horizon, whole families of little children, some of them sick, are being set out on the street.

Now I know there are good landlords who suffer real sickness of heart and spirit every time this happens. There are property owners who will go to any length to keep from dispossessing a tenant, particularly if he has any evidence whatever that the tenant is trying to pay him. But the property owner who makes you wonder if the advent of Christ in this world taught us anything at all about human decency is the one who derives income from outrageously high rent on a hovel which he hasn't seen for years.

I heard the other day about a crippled woman with a hopelessly afflicted child who pays $30 a month for two dark rooms at the back of a house which is so dilapidated they are in danger of falling through the floor.

I heard about a family of seven who pay $16 a week on two miserable rooms in a slum—and that is by no means cheap rent.

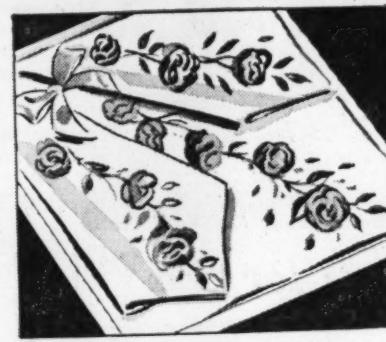

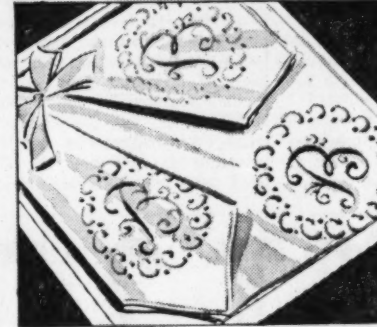

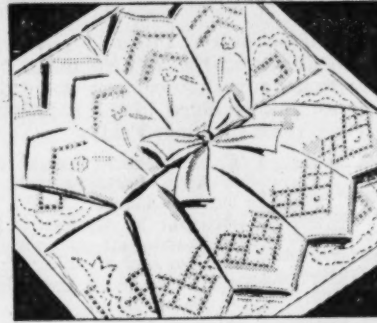

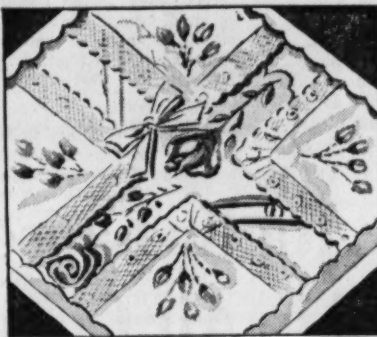

Sometimes they are slow to pay and the boys at the rental agency, who only work for a living, are Johnny-on-the-spot with the little dispossession warrant, which costs $5 at the courthouse but which somehow adds $7.50 to the tenant's rent bill when he struggles in with the money. The agency people get tough. They have to, I suppose, or they'd crack up completely. They're hired to collect for the property owner and if they start worrying over the problems of the poor jerk who got laid off at the mill or had a few drinks and got in jail, they would wind up in the same boat themselves.

Many of the owners themselves know nothing of this struggle. They are comfortably immune and it's wrong. People who derive money from anything should be required by law to at least look at the thing they own once or twice a year. They should see the sagging floors and bad wiring and stinking plumbing and the faces of distraught women and little children who huddle there like rats in a hole as long as they can scrounge up the money but are thrown out on the street when they fail.

Exchanging gifts with friends is a nice thing and Christmas philanthropy is great but knowing from personal experience about landlords, the Lord must have a special scorn for those who give in His name what they have gouged from the poor and helpless.

Stevie Laid to Rest Under Blanket of Snow

By EVERETT R. IRWIN
EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI)—The Christmas journey of Stevie Baltz ended Tuesday in a snow-shrouded cemetery.
The boy whose valiant fight for life wrote a poignant postscript to the nation's greatest air disaster was buried beneath the fresh-fallen snow of Memorial Park Cemetery.

Over his body were read the words of the 23rd Psalm:
"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me."
Of all the 134 victims of the Friday collision of two passenger airliners over New York, 11-year-old Stevie's fate had seemed the most heart-breaking.

The boy, dressed in his Sunday best, was flying to join his mother and sister in New York for the holidays. By almost miraculous chance, he was thrown clear of the smashed United Air Lines jet DC8 onto a Brooklyn street and there was hope for a time that Stevie would be the only survivor of the disaster.

But Stevie's life flickered out after 25 hours and he was brought Tuesday to his "spiritual home," the First Methodist Church of Evanston.
Stevie's family matched their son's courage during the 20-minute services in the chapel.

William Baltz, Admiral Corp. general counsel who had put his son aboard the death plane, led the family to their place in the third aisle of seats. His wife, Phyllis; his daughter, Randee, 8, and his remaining son, William, 4, stood beside him in silent grief.

Their eyes stayed riveted to the small bronze casket, covered with a blanket of red roses which bore the inscription "from the family." There were no tears.

The chapel was filled to its capacity of 300 persons and more mourners were in adjacent rooms. Many of them were classmates of Stevie's in the neighboring Chicago suburb of Wilmette.

This was the church where Stevie had been baptized, gone to Sunday school, enlisted as a preparatory member, and sung in the choir. There was no choir music Tuesday because the church's minister of music thought it would be "more than the parents could bear" to hear boys singing.

Mailer Makes Peace with Night Club

NEW YORK (UPI)—A complaint of disorderly conduct was withdrawn against novelist Norman Mailer Tuesday when the author of the postwar best seller "The Naked and the Dead" agreed in court to make good a $7.60 food and drink bill he owed a Manhattan night club.

Mailer was scheduled to appear in Federal Court to answer charges of stabbing his wife, Adele, after a recent party at their home. After the incident he was ordered to Bellevue Hospital for a psychiatric examination.

He told reporters Tuesday his wife was "up and about now and feeling fine."

Husband Slays Wife, Shoots Peacemaker, Self

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A man quarreling with his wife drove up to a toll station at the Walt Whitman bridge Tuesday, shot her to death, wounded a toll collector who tried to intervene and turned the pistol on himself.

Mrs. Janet Szymanek was pronounced dead on arrival at Methodist Hospital, where her husband Charles underwent brain surgery.

Toll collector John C. McDevitt, 33, said the Szymaneks, both 30, of suburban King of Prussia were yelling at one another when they drove up to his booth.

The woman tried to get out of the car but was dragged back in by her husband, McDevitt said.
"Watch out, he has a gun," the woman cried, and jumped out of the car again.

McDevitt said Mrs. Szymanek screamed "don't let him shoot me" just as the toll collector stepped in between her and her husband. That was when the shooting started.

The toll collector said the first of four shots struck him in the wrist and he fell to his knees. He said Szymanek then shot his wife in the head, placed the pistol against his own temple and fired.

Radar, Radio Lapses Probed in Air Crash

WASHINGTON (AP)—Faulty ground navigation equipment, wild radio signals within an airplane, a brief but critical lapse in radar surveillance were mentioned Tuesday as possible factors involved in the collision of two airliners over New York City last Friday.

The dead totaled 135.

Suggestions of possible failure of omnirange radio navigation equipment at Preston, N.J., and of a possible gap in radar coverage came from W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines.

John R. McDonald, an official of the Air Line Pilots Association, asked ALPA investigators to look into, among other things, the bare chance that signals from a electronic device carried aboard by a passenger—such as a transistor radio or a dictation machine—may have upset the delicate airborne navigational equipment.

E. R. Quesada, Federal Aviation Agency administrator, told a news conference Monday the United DC8 jet appeared to have been 11 miles off course when it came into contact with a Trans-World Airlines Super Constellation over Staten Island.

In a statement from Chicago, Patterson said it was improper for Quesada to make public statements until all the facts were known, and that some of Quesada's statements, regardless of their intent, left the impression that FAA instructions had been disregarded and that the flight had been operated carelessly.

Kennedy Fights Unemployment

Bell, the new budget director, and his deputy, Elmer B. Staats, will start a day of intensive talks with Kennedy Wednesday morning.

The two meetings were closely related in that the planning of both groups will be influenced heavily by the state of the economy after the new administration takes over Jan. 20.

"We are concerned, all of us, and it has occupied some of our attention during the last 24 hours, with the problem of unemployment and the lack of vigor in the economy at this time which, of course, will affect tax revenues," Kennedy told reporters.

January and February estimates, he pointed out, will govern the size of the new administration's budget requests. As to whether he would be willing to submit an unbalanced budget to stimulate the economy, Kennedy said again this would depend on income.

The present budget for fiscal 1961 covers the period through next June 30 and Kennedy said "there may be some deficiencies, but we can get a better idea of that in January."

Asked about the prospects of worsening unemployment, Kennedy told reporters his figures agreed largely with what was available to them, "but I think we can get a better idea of it in January after the Christmas season is over."

from their car, Queen said. He said Reger was found 100 feet beyond the point where the car he had been driving stopped.

Queen said Reger was charged with speeding 75 in a 50-mph zone, driving on the wrong side of the street and accident, and drunk on the street.

Elsewhere, Billy Edward Bryant, 13, of 918 Center Hill Ave., NW, was taken to Crawford W. Long Hospital with head and body injuries after being hit by a car in the 2300 block of Bankhead highway, NW, police said.

Patrolmen G. N. McDonald and D. R. Arnold said they were told the youth ran into the side of a car driven by Mrs. Jamie Gaither Martin, 50, of 916 Woodmere Dr., NW. They said no charge was made.

Hapeville Extends Tax-Filing Time

Hapeville City Council Tuesday night changed the requirements and date for filing tax returns on Hapeville property in 1961.

The time for making the returns will be between Jan. 3 and March 31, 1961. In past years, the closing date was Feb. 28.

In addition, all Hapeville property owners will be required to show proof of having filed returns first with the Fulton County Tax Commission.

Mayor Frank E. Coggin stated this change was made in order to bring Hapeville in line with current practice of other communities and to make tax-paying more uniform and fair.

Kennedy also announced plans for broadening the scope of Johnson's vice presidential functions far beyond his statutory duties as presiding officer of the Senate. He asked Johnson to take the chairmanship of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, a presidential advisory body.

The President-elect also assigned his running mate to head the government contract compliance committee, a post now held by Vice President Richard M. Nixon. The committee is concerned with combating discrimination in the performance of contracts with the government.

the bills is correct, then I think they will require some amending," Flynt said.

"Of course, it will depend altogether on what form the bills take," he added. "It's impossible to judge such broad legislation by placing a label on it."

Rep. Iris Blitch said that for her part she's "not too sympathetic" toward Kennedy's proposals for unemployment assistance or any federal aid to education.

"We're doing a marvelous job in Georgia (on education), and we're free of any strings," Rep. Blitch said. "The state is not unaware of its deficiencies in the education field, but we have made remarkable strides in the past 15 years."

Congressman-elect Robert Stephens of Athens said he feels "a lot of Southerners aren't going to be anxious for speedy action" on Kennedy's proposals.

Stephens said he might favor aid to education provided "there are no strings attached to it that we can't accept."

Regarding unemployment aid, Stephens said that as he understands it "in general, it would be a recovery program much like that in the early Roosevelt administration."

He said he probably "wouldn't oppose that type of assistance so long as it's provided for in a

BERLIN (UPI)—East and West German delegations negotiated two and one-half hours Tuesday in a fruitless effort to break a trade deadlock the Communists warned could lead to a new Berlin blockade.

When Tuesday's session, the fifth in a series, failed, a sixth meeting was scheduled for Wednesday in a race to beat a Jan. 1 deadline.

The Western trade experts met under a Communist threat to impose restrictions on Western Allied access to isolated Berlin unless agreement is reached by Jan. 1 of a new East-West German trade agreement.

ington, where he will report to President Eisenhower.

Frankie conferred here with Rear Adm. Schuyler N. Pyne, commander of the shipyard, and Vice Adm. Charles J. Wellborn Jr., commandant of the Third Naval District, who had shared with Cavanaugh the direction of fire-fighting and rescue efforts.

He said, after hearing the admirals' informal accounts, that so far as he could tell neither carelessness, poor housekeeping nor economy measures could be blamed for the tragedy.

Frankie also heard stories of horror and heroism from injured workers who had close brushes with death aboard the Constellation, where 25 of the men are being treated for burns, smoke poisoning and exhaustion.

Cavanaugh, who had said that the use of wooden foot planks on the metal scaffolding had enabled the fire to spread in some parts of the ship, stepped up his criticism at a departmental promotion ceremony in New York City.

Speaking on fire prevention in general, Cavanaugh said there were "some deviations from safe practice that are so extreme they may border on the criminal." Then, getting more specific, he added:

"You may hear more about Monday's fire when investigations are held. We made some observations Monday. There is just no excuse for these things that go on happening."

At another point in his talk, urging inspectors to "close up for a few days" premises where they found violations, Cavanaugh said: "Get these slobos out of business. That goes for official slobos as well as civilian slobos. There is no magic in these great agencies. Unfortunately we do not have jurisdiction over them."

Frankie, asked about published reports of Navy "economy" in using wooden planks instead of all-metal scaffolding, said this had been standard practice in all construction by the Navy as well as in commercial shipyards.

"We've built all our other carriers the same way," he said.

Mop-up crews, who were going through every compartment of the 1,047-foot-long ship, found one more body Tuesday afternoon, bringing the counted dead to 47, of whom 38 have been identified. The Navy said one workman remained unaccounted for. About half of the 44 injured who had been in hospitals overnight went home. Several of the others were in serious condition with burns or smoke poisoning.

The fire, which had broken out at 10:30 a.m. Monday when a forklift truck sheared the plug off a 500-gallon tank of diesel fuel, was put out at 3 a.m. Tuesday. Clarifying conflicting reports as to the nature of the fuel, the Navy said it was a kerosene-like fuel, used to test generators and other equipment engines.

Classmate Succeeds Kennedy

BOSTON (AP)—Gov. Foster Furcolo said Thursday he will appoint Benjamin A. Smith II of Gloucester as the successor to the Senate seat now held by President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Furcolo issued this statement at a news conference:

"In the interest of promoting unity in the Democratic party as Sen. Kennedy becomes president of the United States I have accepted the suggestion of President-elect Kennedy to name Ben Smith of Gloucester as United States senator. I am also informed he will serve two years and not seek election in 1962."

Smith, a box manufacturer and former mayor of Gloucester, is 43. He was a Harvard classmate of Kennedy's and served in the Pacific in World War II as a naval lieutenant.

Kennedy and Smith were ushers at each others' weddings.

Furcolo said Kennedy has not yet resigned his Senate seat, and the appointment cannot be made until he does.

Smith, president of five concerns in Gloucester, was a full-back at Harvard. He was graduated in 1939, one year ahead of Kennedy. He is one of the North Shore's leading yachtmen.

His wife is the former Barbara Mechem, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Collier Mechem of Lake Forest, Ill.

The Smiths have five children.

U.N. Votes to Assess All Members for Congo

tual vote of confidence in the way Hammarskjold has directed U.N. efforts in the Congo.

The count was 43 in favor, 22 against and 32 abstentions — one less than the required two-thirds majority. No African country voted for the resolution. Five African countries were opposed and 18, including South Africa, abstained. Two were absent.

A rival resolution presented by India, Yugoslavia and six other countries went down to defeat 42 against, 28 for and 27 abstentions.

LUMUMBA CITED

This resolution sought the release at once of Lumumba and the immediate reconvening of the Congolese Parliament. It would have put the assembly on record as urging the neutralizing of the Congolese army, which is holding Lumumba prisoner on charges of treason.

The U.S.-British resolution would have directed Hammarskjold to work with President Joseph Kasavubu to restore conditions that would permit the reconvening of Parliament.

Sudanese to Moscow

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP)—A Sudanese economic delegation will leave for Moscow Thursday to discuss renewal of the annual trade agreement between Sudan and the Soviet Union.

The rival resolution pointedly omitted any reference to Hammarskjold by name. Its sponsors are supporters of Lumumba. The entire Soviet bloc voted for the resolution, as did many Asian-African nations.

RESUMING MARCH 7

Faced with the deadlock, the assembly unanimously approved an Austrian proposal to carry over the Congo question to the resumed session set for March 7.

Hammarskjold took the rostrum in the assembly hall immediately after the vote on the Austrian proposal to make clear his intention to continue the role of the U.N. force in the Congo.

He said previous decisions of the council and assembly authorizing the Congo force remain fully valid, as do the obligations imposed on U.N. members to support the Congo effort.

He deplored the outcome of the vote as failing to give the U.N. Congo operation the moral and political support it needed.

At its Tuesday afternoon session the Assembly resolved another deadlock by electing Liberia to the U.N. Security Council with the understanding it would resign after serving one year. Ireland would then be elected to fill out the normal two-year term.

mas Eve! They anticipated that the young bloods of the town and neighboring communities would want to prowl the city streets until a late hour ("mingling in the merry throng" was the way they put it) but they warned them against turning a holy day into "a bacchanalian orgy."

It could have been fairly bacchanalian at that. The prohibition issue was being debated in Congress and whisky was selling at $1 a quart with a rocking chair thrown in for a premium. "Furnish your home with our premiums," one liquor merchant urged his customers.

A concern for the poor and needy became a Christmas consideration at the turn of the century, although it was not always shown in the most tactful fashion. A group of children from an institution unfortunately named "The Home for the Friendless," were placed in a downtown department store window with a sign urging passersby to look and contribute to their Christmas dinner.

Miss Martha Berry, founder of the famous Rome school for mountain children, was beginning her work among rural children and she planned a small party for Christmas Day in 1900 in the log cabin where she had been teaching. She found children who had never seen a decorated tree or heard of Santa Claus and she assembled some dolls, popguns and knives and fruit and candy to give them a bang-up party. By 10 o'clock Christmas morning her lawn was crowded with wagons and ox teams and people of all ages. By noon the cabin was hidden from view by the crowd.

Miss Berry went through her own home snatching up belongings of her brothers and sisters to have a present for everyone. The party was an enormous success. Santa's "cave" hit fire but the flames were contained in time to save the cabin from burning.

A gnarled, seamy-faced old gentleman drew a gift intended for a little girl—a small mirror—but Miss Berry didn't take it back because he was so happy with it. As the story is told in Miss Berry's biography, "The Sunday Lady of Possum Trot," the old man sat smiling, scowling and laughing at his image.

"First time in 20 years I seen my face," he said.

City celebrants quickly got away from the homemade gift and riotously squandered their substance on the store-bought. In Atlanta where you could buy coffee for 19 cents a pound, butter for 35 cents a pound and eggs for 35 cents a dozen in 1914, many ladies were buying their husbands $18.50 Morris chairs and husbands were being urged to invest in Grafonolas, sealskin coats, and plumed hats. "Give her an Oakland sedan (Sturdy as an Oak) for Christmas," one dealer urged. The price: $2,600.

There was fighting in Europe but Atlanta was engrossed in social activity, a "terpsechorean fete" at the municipal auditorium. Maude Adams in a new Barrie comedy at the Atlanta theatre, masquerades, Christmas parties for Confederate veterans and—this in East Point—a community possum hunt.

Continues tomorrow.

U.S. Indicts 2 Insurers In GI Case

Charges Payoffs At Ft. Benning

COLUMBUS (AP)—A federal grand jury at Macon has indicted two insurance men on charges of bribery and conspiracy involving life insurance sales at Fort Benning.

The indictment was filed here Tuesday in the office of H. Oday Parker, deputy clerk, U.S. District Court of the Middle District of Georgia. The cases will be set for trial at the March term of federal court here.

DALLAS AGENT, ALSO

Listed as general agents for Universal American Life Insurance Co., Atlanta, Ga., are William Earl Moore, Atlanta, and Wayne Huey Smith, Dallas, Tex. They are charged in 14 counts involving illegal insurance transactions.

The indictment charges that Moore and Smith promised and delivered money to five Fort Benning soldiers, expecting them to perform—or omit to perform—acts within their lawful duty. One soldier named in the indictment—as pretending acceptance of conspiring with the insurance men in regulations and control of solicitation and sale of commercial insurance to military personnel at Fort Benning.

PAY-OFFS CHARGED

The indictment charges that "pay-offs for services received" were made between the insurance men and the soldiers on April 25 and May 20. According to the indictment, Moore and Smith were present when bribes totaling $1,160 were paid to the soldiers in return for services in violation of the accepted procedure of commercial life insurance sale to military personnel.

Pay-offs recorded on April 25 and May 20 are listed in the indictments as follows:

M/Sgt. Joseph H. Iback, $360; M/Sgt. Russell V. Steare, approximately $310; Sgt. James A. Bourgeois, $50; Sgt. Arthur Gardner, $195, and Sgt. Kenneth W. Pickett, $245.

Judge Pye Withdraws News Charge

Fulton Superior Court Judge Durwood T. Pye has withdrawn contempt charges against the Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., and against an Atlanta Journal reporter in accordance with rulings by the Georgia Supreme Court.

Judge Pye cited Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., for contempt after stories appeared in The Atlanta Journal and The Atlanta Constitution on the James Meriwether trial in June 1959. He found the company guilty and assessed a fine of $20,000.

The judgment was reversed by the Georgia Court of Appeals. Judge Pye then amended the original citation, setting forth new grounds for contempt. He also cited Atlanta Journal reporter Gordon Roberts for contempt. After a hearing, he assessed fines of $20,000 against the company and $100 against Roberts.

The decision was appealed by Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., and by Roberts and was reversed by the state Supreme Court.

Judge Pye had reserved the two cases for possible further action until Monday, when he issued the orders withdrawing and dismissing the actions.

Bank Robbery Suspects Placed at Concord Scene

Government witnesses testified here Tuesday that Lawrence Robert (Big Red) Duncan and St. Clair Johnston were in Concord the day a bank was burglarized there.

Each of the three witnesses who appeared Tuesday were questioned extensively by defense lawyers. After the preliminary hearing had run about three hours, it was continued by U.S. Commissioner Frank A. Holden until 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Kathryn Barker, cashier at Concord Banking Co., said Duncan came into the bank Dec. 12 and asked for some change.

Mrs. Barker said she got a "fair look" at a man with Duncan. The man, she said, was about Johnston's size.

Mrs. Barker said $1,558.53 was taken when the bank was burglarized on the night of Dec. 12. Duncan and Johnston, both fugitives, were arrested here last Thursday and charged with breaking into the bank.

The bank occupies one corner of a store in Concord, which is near Zebulon in Pike County.

Youth Sues In Fireworks Blast Injury

Constitution State News Service DUBLIN—A suit was filed here Tuesday for $50,000 damages growing out of injuries received when fireworks exploded in a boy's pocket during a Christmas church service.

E. Gay Rigby, a Laurens County farmer, filed the suit in Superior Court here, on behalf of his 17-year-old son, Joseph Rigby. The suit names Earl Hadden and Mrs. Clara J. Hadden of Dublin as defendants and contends that Earl Hadden sold the Rigby youth fireworks.

The suit charges that young Rigby's hand was permanently disabled during a Dublin church service when he thrust his hand into his pocket and fireworks in the pocket exploded.

The suit alleges that Rigby bought the fireworks from Earl Hadden on Dec. 20, 1958, before attending services at the East Dublin Assembly of God Church. The fireworks explosion occurred during the Christmas program at the church.

At the same time he filed the suit, Rigby also filed a petition for an injunction against Mr. and Mrs. Hadden which would enjoin them from selling fireworks.

Hardy F. Cowen Leads Masons At Morningside

Hardy F. Cowen, vice president of the Tucker Federal Savings & Loan Association, was elected worshipful master of Morningside Lodge No. 295, F&AM, Tuesday night.

Cowen succeeds W. Edgar Coleman.

Other new officers are Frank O. Carson, senior warden; Earl B. Welsh Jr., junior warden; Wilmer C. Tolleson, chaplain; C. Clayton Turner, treasurer; Steve C. McGarity, secretary; E. E. Livingston, senior deacon; Glenn Fox, junior deacon; E. J. Hosh, senior steward; Arthur C. Williamson, junior steward, and Arthur Farmer, tyler.

Vandiver Praises Fish Commission; Albany's Tift Is Reelected Chairman

The State Game and Fish Commission Tuesday elected Richard Tift of Albany to a third term as chairman in an action said to be unprecedented in the history of the present commission.

The 11-member commission named Jim Owen of Griffin as vice president to succeed former State Sen. Alva Hopkins of Folkston and reelected W. E. Smith of Americus as secretary.

Gov. Ernest Vandiver, who attended the commission's year-end meeting, commended members on a 1960 program of expansion of service without cost to taxpayers.

"I feel that it is significant that the sportsmen of Georgia are continuing to foot the bill for Georgia's conservation program through purchases of fishing and hunting licenses and other fees.

"By that I mean that it was not necessary during the past year to ask for taxpayers' money to finance the operation of the State Game and Fish Commission, said Vandiver.

The commission's budget for fiscal 1960 was $1,544,576.

Must Expand Trade Schools, Legislative Panel Warns State

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

A state legislative subcommittee said Tuesday there is an "urgent need for immediate expansion in the fields of industrial arts, trade and industrial education in Georgia."

The group said in a report to the Legislature that expanded educational programs are needed in the state to train young people to take advantage of thousands of new jobs being created yearly in the state.

It recommended that the State Board of Education "give consideration to requiring at least one unit of industrial arts in a junior high school grade."

The subcommittee was a part of the joint committee on teacher education, headed by Sen. Wallace Jernigan of Homerville, which issued its report last week.

One of the deficiencies the subcommittee found in many Georgia communities is that high school students do not have "the opportunity to learn what kind of jobs, or what kind of careers, are available in industry."

"A good comprehensive program of industrial arts and trade and industrial education is immediately essential for the State of Georgia to attain its maximum in economic growth," the report said.

While 85 per cent of Georgia's total employment is now in industry, only .08 per cent of the students enrolled in Georgia's schools are studying industrial arts and trade and industrial education courses, the subcommittee found.

The subcommittee said 159 new plants with 10,024 jobs were established in the state in 1959 and 100 new plants supplying 6,100 new jobs will be created this year.

"As more and more jobs are created in trade and commerce, our schools must furnish more and more better trained young people to fill those jobs," the committee said.

The committee urged that:

Appeal Judges Take Oaths

Four judges of the Court of Appeals took the oath of office from Gov. Ernest Vandiver Monday. The number was believed to be a record for a single swearing in.

Given the oath were Judges Julie W. Felton, J. M. C. Townsend, John Sammons Bell and John E. Frankum, all winners of new terms in this year's elections.

1. The vocational agriculture program should be kept flexible, modern and up to date.

2. Adequate training for business, trade and commerce be included in every high school curriculum.

3. Efforts be made to extend distributive education programs to every school system.

4. The first course in home economics be required in at least the ninth grade in all high schools in view of the number of girls who drop out at early ages to get married.

5. Homemaking courses should be kept modern, including such matters as marketing and merchandising.

6. Urgent priority be given to the institution of adequate industrial arts and trade and industrial education facilities and courses throughout the state.

7. Immediate steps be taken to provide for the training of industrial arts teachers at the University of Georgia.

8. Area vocational schools must be fitted into the total pattern of making adequate vocational education available to all young people.

There is a need for continuing research and planning in the entire field of vocational education.

Yule Picture On Highway Isn't Merry

Constitution State News Service

ATHENS—Here are some not-so-merry Christmas facts about driving during the holidays, compiled by the National Safety Council and Willis E. Huston, engineer for the University Extension Service.

Christmas Eve is the most dangerous day to drive. And the period from 6 p.m. to midnight on Christmas Eve is the most deadly of the day. During these hours the average number of deaths from highway accidents jumps nationally to 12 an hour, compared to an average of less than five an hour during the next 24 hours.

The odds are always against the speeders. During the holidays, 75 per cent of fatal accidents involve motorists who are speeding. This compares with about 38 per cent during the non-holidays.

And elbow-bending at the Christmas office party is about like playing Russian roulette on the highways. The Safety Council's not-so-merry Christmas figures show that 55 per cent of fatal automobile accidents involve drinking drivers. This compares with an average of about 30 per cent year round.

Grady Given $162,000 in Back Taxes

The Fulton-DeKalb Hospital Authority will get $162,000 from Fulton County commissioners as Grady Hospital's share of back taxes for 1954, 1957 and 1958.

Accepting the $162,000 in back-tax money, the authority agreed to "write-off" about $155,000 in charges to Fulton County.

Authority members praised chairman Frank Thomas for working out the settlement with Fulton commissioners in a special meeting Monday morning.

LEVY IS 5 MILLS

Th hospital authority has been asking $316,000 from the county as its yet-unpaid share of the tax levy for the years 1954, 1957 and 1958.

Officials explained that the sums come from the hospital's 5-mill share of Fulton County taxes. When the county is late in collecting its taxes, the county's payment to the hospital lags behind.

Authority members Monday again failed to act on a request from Hughes Spalding Pavilion trustees for a joint meeting.

PETITION READ

Rothberg also read a petition from Spalding officials asking that the hospital be assisted in establishing an internal medicine training program for Negro physicians. Spalding now has a graduate trainee program in surgery.

Chairman Thomas again called for withholding action until a report of the special committee reviewing Spalding's operations is received. This committee is headed by Scott Chandler.

Spalding is the only hospital in Georgia where Negro surgeons can receive post-graduate training, and Spalding officials are asking for an expansion of the training program to include internal medicines, pediatrics and obstetrics.

Hospital officials at Grady have estimated such a program would cost $800 a day alone in beds now used for private patients which would have to be devoted to charity cases.

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union and Communist Hungary signed a new agreement Tuesday calling for 2.5 billion rubles in trade, a 25 per cent increase over last year.

Sugar War Threatened By Castro

By MARTIN W. HOUSEMAN

HAVANA (UPI)—Premier Fidel Castro threatened Tuesday to wreck the world sugar market by dumping huge surpluses on it next year if Cuba is not able to sell its entire crop.

He said Communist pledges to buy four million tons of Cuban sugar if the United States continues to ban further purchases have "saved" the coming crop.

But he warned that Cuba will dump surpluses and tumble world prices "if imperialists continue their economic aggression by developing other areas."

Castro announced that Cuba for the first time will grind all of the cane it has planted. This, taking into account the Soviet commitments, would leave Cuba with a surplus of about two million tons, the average amount it has for world market distribution.

Economists also questioned the value of the Soviet offer to pay "4 cents a pound" for the Cuban sugar in view of the barter nature of the agreement. They pointed out that Moscow can control the eventual price the Cubans get for sugar simply by jockeying prices on machinery and equipment to be shipped under the trade pact.

Castro spoke for three hours and 41 minutes to a meeting billed as "A Plenary Session of the Sugar Industry." Actually, however, it was boycotted by all but 218 of the 65,000 members of the Cane Growers Association. The audience largely was made up of uniformed militiamen.

One of the heartiest cheerleaders at the meeting was Soviet vice commissioner of commerce, Mikhail Kuzmin, who shouted applause at Castro's remarks. "The revolution's main strength," Kuzmin told the audience, "lies in the unity of the proletariat."

Much of Castro's speech was devoted to a bitter attack on his Roman Catholic Church foes.

Referring to unconfirmed reports the church plans to excommunicate Father German Lence, a pro-Castro priest, Castro shouted, "If they excommunicate him, they will have to excommunicate the revolutionary government and the people."

Housing Aide Visits Atlanta

Mrs. Mary Cleverley, assistant commissioner of the U. S. Public Housing Administration, is here for a three-day official visit at regional PHA headquarters.

Mrs. Cleverley, the first assistant PHA commissioner appointed to deal with housing for the elderly, arrived Monday and will return to Washington on Wednesday.

Mrs. Cleverley was named to the new post when it was created last September. She is visiting all PHA regional headquarters prior to the White House Conference on Aging which will be held in Washington Jan. 9-12.

Columbus Firm's Bid Lowest on River Job

FORT GAINES—A bid of $7,064,189 was received Tuesday by Army engineers for the final construction contract at Walter P. George lock and dam on the Chattahoochee River near Fort Gaines. The apparent low bid was filed by Hardaway Construction Co. of Columbus. The government estimate of the project, without provisions for profit, was $6,304,184. Four bids were received.

Savannah Acts Again To Preserve History

SAVANNAH—Another major step toward preservation and restoration of Savannah's historic architectural beauty was announced Tuesday by Emory L. Jarrot, who is heading the project. Jarrot said he has signed a contract for purchase of eight row houses in a block of the older part of the city. The block was once "one of the finest of the row house blocks in Savannah," according to Walter C. Hartridge, president of the Georgia Historical Society.

2 Convicts Shot Trying To Escape

The State Board of Correction disclosed Tuesday that two youthful prisoners were wounded by shotgun blasts from Georgia State Prison guards when they tried to escape.

Corrections Director Jack Forrester said Larry Ivan Johnson, 20, and Robert Courtney Fish, 18, were wounded Nov. 28 when they tried to break from a work detail one-fourth of a mile from the main prison buildings.

CLEARING GROUND

The detail was clearing new ground, Forrester explained. The corrections director said other prisoners staged a fight to draw the attention of a guard and Johnson and Fish ran.

Guards E. W. Kirkley and R. E. Turner opened fire when the two refused to halt. Fish, who was serving eight to 12 years for voluntary manslaughter and robbery, was hit by pellets in the left leg and under the right ear. Johnson was struck by pellets on the leg and back.

TREATED AT HOSPITAL

Forrester said neither man was critically injured, but both were treated at the prison hospital.

Fish and James Elmer Nickell, also 18, were convicted in connection with the robbery-slaying in Athens of Henry Thornton, 75, a retired Negro cook. Nickell was convicted only of robbery.

Johnson was under sentence from Fulton County for robbery and a misdemeanor.

Lockheed Pays Cobb $345,000

Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s Georgia Division made a record tax payment of $345,000 to Cobb County for 1960—a sum officials said reflects an increase in orders from purchasers other than the U.S. Government.

The tax payment covered personal property, fixed assets and commercial business conducted by Lockheed in Cobb County. It compared with $196,000 paid in 1959.

A Lockheed statement pointed out the gain represents "the increasing business of the Marietta plant with commercial firms and friendly foreign nations." Commercial business of the division is represented largely by the JetStar, a four-engine jet aircraft now in production.

The Marietta-based division noted that $125,000 of its 1960 total tax payment will go for support of Cobb County schools.

Moscow! Spare Holiday Tree

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda was critical Tuesday because Moscow, a city of more than five million people, has an allotment of only 160,000 holiday trees under a forestry conservation program.

"You can put Father Frost, (Santa Claus) and Snow Maiden on the television set and you can hang other decorations on the lamp shade, but how can you celebrate New Year's without a tree?" the newspaper asked.

Prisons Buying Station Wagons

Truck-type station wagons are being purchased by the state to keep prison officials from having to carry prisoners about the state in wire-enclosed pickup trucks.

Corrections Director Jack Forrester said Tuesday that his department has bought three vehicles and fitted them with steel security grills for use as transfer vehicles.

The department installs the grill and seats for prisoners at Georgia State Prison to save money, Forrester explained.

He said these vehicles are being used to replace pickup trucks which have been used in the past to transport prisoners.

The three trucks bought this quarter have been assigned to Buford, Putnam Prison Branch, and Lee Prison Branch. Forrester said he anticipates putting others at the Jefferson prison and at Macon prison in Montezuma.

Forrester explained that he plans to buy the vehicles for each of the 13 state highway maintenance camps where prisoners are used in work details.

Three of the $2,100 trucks were bought this quarter, two more will be bought next quarter and two more will be bought the following quarter if money is on hand.

Chappie Bland, our third-generation Master Distiller, says:

“you can taste our pride in this bourbon”

Chappie Bland, like his father and his father's father, carries the proud title of Master Distiller. This man, who was "born in a bourbon cradle," says Bourbon de Luxe has a smooth taste you can't miss...and shouldn't. Why? Because it's made the very careful way by old-timers who are masters of the art...men who proudly carry on in a great Kentucky tradition. The result is Bourbon de Luxe has all the authentic flavor of traditional Kentucky bourbon plus a light quality that's remarkable. You can taste their pride in this bourbon...so try it real soon.

Smallpox Vaccine Can End Recurring Fever Blisters

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes a fever blister? I get rid of one, and another takes its place.—L. M.

Aggravating, isn't it? Often some persistent virus or germ is the cause. Oddly enough (I won't go into the reasons, which are, when you get down to it, quite logical) sometimes a smallpox vaccination will stop recurring blisters of this sort. Chronic infection lingering on or in the skin can also be a cause. So can an allergy.

I am moving from my own home to a hotel, where I'll have to use a bathtub to which a few strangers will have access. What cleansing medium is advisable?—A. W.

For all practical purposes, just remember that soap and water and a good rinse are the simplest procedure, because soap is a very good antiseptic. That's all I'd do. If you insist on further precautions, a swabbing of the tub with any of the household cleaning agents containing chlorine would be all right, or, to go even more to extremes, a dilute antiseptic solution containing phenol—which, of course, must be diluted and must be used with care. But soap and water will kill, thin out or disable most any of the germs that could be left by a previous user. Keep in mind: The previous user probably uses soap too and is a naturally clean person or wouldn't be using the tub, so the chance of picking up germs is really very slight indeed.

What causes the growth of stray hairs on the faces of so many women after they reach the menopause? Is there any safe, permanent way of removing them?—B. N. S.

Some women encounter this before menopause. Usually it is a family trait. After menopause, the explanation is simply that there has been a shift in hormonal activity in the body, because hormones from the ovaries decrease and other hormones become more dominant.

Bleaching these hairs to make them less noticeable is often a perfectly adequate answer. Removal by electrolysis, or "electric needle," is safe. Your physician can refer you to someone skilled in this work.

Why is coffee bad to drink after it has stood awhile? My friends are warning me about this, but they don't give me any reason. I always pour it into a glass.—H. B. W.

If coffee is allowed to stand on the grounds, more extractive materials are taken from them. The coffee is more bitter, but that's all. The same is true of tea.

Is there anything to help low blood pressure? Mine is 110. I am always getting black spots

Revenue Agents Nab

Still-Hunting Posse

SPARTANBURG, S.C. — Rural policemen Bill High and Wallace Snow, accompanied by a couple of citizens recruited as hatchet men, moved into the area of an illicit liquor still to break up the operation.

As they moved in, so did a pair of Federal Alcohol Tax Unit agents, convinced they had caught the operators of the still. After the dust had cleared, all hands joined to destroy the still.

Byrd Backs Salaries for Sheriffs

LI. Gov. Garland Byrd threw his backing Tuesday behind a proposed bill which would put all Georgia sheriffs on a salary and do away with the fee system.

At the same time, the State Chamber of Commerce urged all state legislators to end speed traps and promote the tourist business by passing the salary bill.

Byrd said the proposed bill, which is sponsored by the Georgia Sheriffs Association, "has real merit. It is most certainly a step in the right direction and I will urge members of the General Assembly to give it favorable consideration."

The lieutenant governor pointed out in a prepared statement that this bill is "new and different" from one which was introduced in the Legislature last season.

"Should this legislation receive the approval of the General Assembly, Georgia's sheriffs would go on a salary-budget system of pay ranging from $6,000 to $15,000 per year according to the population of their respective counties," Byrd explained.

He said the population bracket begins at 4,000.

JURY MUST ACT

Under the proposed bill, the county commissioner or commissioners would recommend to one grand jury that the system be adopted and the system would automatically go into effect upon the approval by the grand jury.

The bill is supposed to meet objections the previous bill faced, it was learned.

Byrd did not say in his statement in which house the bill will first be introduced. His statement merely said it has been "brought to my attention" that the bill "will be introduced during the next session."

TO END SPEED TRAPS

However, the lieutenant governor made it plain he intends to pass the bill in the Senate.

The Chamber of Commerce told legislators in letters being sent out Tuesday, "It is going to be up to the General Assembly through you to take positive action" to end speed traps and encourage tourism.

"Most Georgians, by a great majority, are heartily in favor of ending speed traps and promoting the tourist business and realize that the most effective way to do this is to end the fee system and put all law-enforcement officers on a salary basis," the letter states.

'GREAT OPPORTUNITY'

The letter is signed by Larry D. Lloyd, manager of the chamber travel council, who said 198 organizations representing 473,000 people, have passed resolutions backing the chamber's drive for public support on ending the fee system.

The letter said abolition of the fee system "offers us the greatest single opportunity to boost our tourist and our industrial economy."

Gasless Plane Lands on Road

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — A Newport, Ark., attorney and a rock 'n' roll musician escaped injury Monday when they set their light plane down on a highway after it ran out of gas near here.

Max Bowie, 43-year-old lawyer, made a dead stick landing on the stretch of new Interstate Route 55 still under construction. Bowie and his passenger, Joe E. Lewis, 22, were en route to Memphis. Lewis, also of Newport, is lead guitarist for Conway Twitty's rock 'n' roll band.

Fire Traps Him 6 Hours

NEW YORK (AP)—Nobody really knows what it's like to be alone—until he's trapped in a blazing ship for six hours.

To John Woytovich, a short, chunky 57-year-old electrician, it was like six centuries. And: "I was alone . . . very, very alone."

ASKED FOR MIRACLE

During that time, he said, he thought of a million things. He prayed almost that many times, too. He asked for a miracle. He's sure he was granted one.

Woytovich, father of two children, said he was working with a crew on a refrigeration unit three decks down when fire broke out aboard the aircraft carrier Constellation Monday.

The group received an order to abandon ship, he said, and the others started getting panicky.

TRIED TO KEEP ORDER

"I had been a lifeguard when I was younger," Woytovich related, "and I don't panic easily, so I stood next to the ladder and tried to keep order. I got the men to stop shoving and go up in an orderly way. So I was the last man.

"Smoke had started to fill in and I couldn't find my way out. I went up on one deck and had to stop. You could not see. You could not breathe.

"Somehow I ended up in a chain locker. I felt a draft around my ankles. There was air down there, so I lay down on my stomach with my face against this vent. That's what saved my life.

LAY THERE AND PRAYED

"I wanted to be home for Christmas and . . . I'm going to be, now. It's just a miracle. . . . Lord knows, I lay there and prayed for one.

"I thought of many things as I lay there. The first thing was to keep making noise so somebody would know I was there. You know, I never got tired. I never felt it.

"I lay there hoping against hope. I knew if I gave up that was all for me. I'm a fighter. I knew they'd save me. I had to know they'd save me.

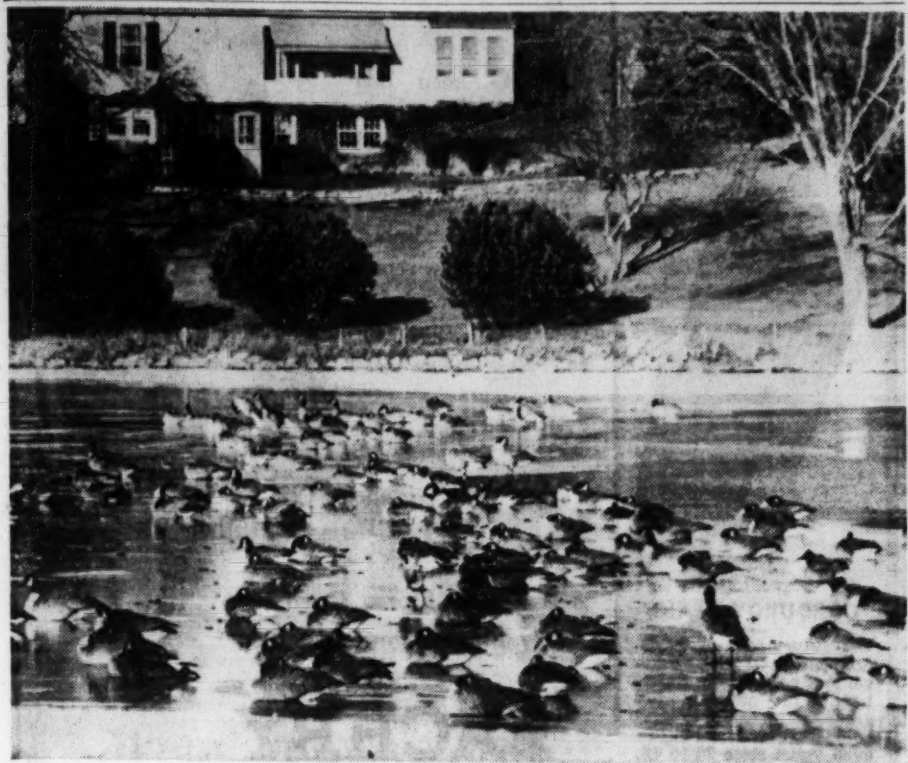

WANTED OUT

"You think of a million things when you're in a spot like that, but there's only one thought—you want to live, you want out.

"You think, are they gonna get to you? Then you think they have to get you out. It wouldn't be right if they didn't get to you. . . .

"There's a million things go through your mind.

Snow Foolin': Alaskans Beg For Yule Snow

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—While residents of many parts of the United States were digging themselves out of snowbanks, the folks up here in the frozen north were wondering Tuesday if they were going to have a White Christmas.

Warm temperatures have melted most of the snow in the Anchorage area. In fact, a lack of snow caused safety officials at Elmendorf Air Force Base near here to postpone a winter safe driving demonstration.

Record Snowstorm Pounds at Midwest

By The Associated Press

A record pre-winter storm howled into the Midwest from the Rockies Tuesday, spilling 12½ inches of snow on Chicago, then speeding northeastward ahead of falling temperatures.

With the winter season starting officially at 3:27 p.m. Wednesday, the thermometer dropped steadily in cold air spreading southward over the Great Plains. Readings were expected to drop to near 20 below zero during the night in parts of Minnesota and North Dakota and to zero from the central portions of Wisconsin southwestward into Kansas.

Late Tuesday Chicago's Midway Airport measured 12½ inches of snow which broke the 11-inch mark for a prewinter snowfall in a 24-hour period set on Dec. 6 and 7, 1950. All main streets and highways in the metropolitan area were snow packed and hazardous driving warnings were in effect.

Snow crews worked throughout the night and through the day making streets passable. Commuter train service was only slightly snarled.

Highways in northern Illinois, northern Indiana, Michigan, upper Michigan, West Virginia, western Pennsylvania, western Maryland, of Ohio were snow packed and icy in spots.

Cold wave warnings were in effect throughout the upper Mississippi Valley, the western upper Great Lakes and the central Great Plains.

By evening the snow belt reached the western portions of Pennsylvania and New York State and was expected to spread into the middle Atlantic and New England states by morning.

Traffic was slowed to a snail's pace in Detroit and Louisville by nightfall. Two inches had fallen in Detroit, with two more expected. Louisville measured more than an inch of wet snow, carried by stiff winds.

Paris Balloon Lands

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (AP)—A weather balloon launched near Paris landed here intact after a three-week flight covering 3,125 miles.

Western military sources said they have located an aerial drop zone about 40 miles north of Vientiane, confirming the premier's charge. But they said they doubt Communist support can turn the tide in the Laotian civil war.

The Soviet Union began flying gasoline into Vientiane two weeks ago after the neutralist former premier, Prince Souvanna Phouma, accepted Kremlin aid. The airlifts were switched to weapons, including heavy artillery, when Kong Le gained temporary control of the city a week ago.

The airlifts ended just before pro-Communist forces were routed last Friday to end the savage battle for Vientiane.

Reds Airdrop Arms, Laos Prince Asserts

By TONY ESCODA

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Premier Prince Boun Oum charged Tuesday that Capt. Kong Le's retreating leftist forces are getting Soviet and Red North Vietnamese airdrops of weapons.

The head of the new pro-Western government said he plans to restrict the propaganda activities of the Soviet ambassador here but lacks power to break diplomatic relations with Moscow.

"The Soviet ambassador is accredited to the king (Savang Vatthana) and we can do nothing about it (ending relations) for the time being," Boun Oum said.

Rusk, Herter Talk at Lunch

Nothing Changed by Revolt, Selassie Assures Ethiopians

By JAY WALZ

(Copyright 1966, The New York Times Co.)
ADDIS ABABA—Emperor Haile Selassie solemnly announced his determination Tuesday to continue ruling Ethiopia in the social and economic interests of his subjects.

The short-lived insurrection of last week, he said, would "not change our system or our devotion to the people and their development."

The emperor was asked at a news conference what effect the attempted coup d'etat by officers in the imperial bodyguard might have on the future of his government.

"None at all," he replied. "Their declarations approved the program of progress in education, health, social welfare we have been implementing all the time."

The ruler's reference was to declarations proclaimed by the rebel government stating it would end "3,000 years of injustice" by instituting social and political reforms.

The emperor, answering another question, said he had "no evidence" that any foreign power was involved in the insurrection but commented that in the tactics and declarations of the rebels "something appears." He would not elaborate except to say his government would investigate the "possibility" of foreign instigation.

Later, the emperor said the Soviet ambassador "at his request" was the first to call on him after the rebellion. He said other ambassadors had sent expressions of good will and condolence over the deaths of 14 ministers and other important government personages who had been held by the rebel leaders as hostages and shot.

Selassie said the uprising had been "completely crushed," although a few ringleaders who fled to the mountains remain at large.

Meanwhile, Arthur L. Richards, United States Ambassador here since last August, disclosed he played the role of "go between" in an effort to help the rebels and loyal forces "stop bloodshed" in the crucial hours of trouble last week.

The ambassador was in Guenete Leul Palace at the time the army made its advance Friday morning and made a hasty exit through a window when he saw how matters were going. He denied reports that at the time he was in the same room with the minister hostages who were subsequently shot.

"I was not serving as a mediator in the dispute," the ambassador emphatically said. "But we had information that trouble was brewing and the embassy offered its services in the humanitarian way the Red Cross would."

De Gaulle Pushes Algeria Autonomy

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle asked France Tuesday night to endorse local autonomy and eventual self-determination for Algeria. He offered this course as the way to peace in North Africa after more than six years of Nationalist rebellion.

De Gaulle asserted he is ready at any moment to open peace talks with the leaders of the revolt. His speech, carried throughout France and Algeria by radio and TV, was the first of three he plans before the Jan. 8 referendum of his Algerian proposals.

The speech, in effect, opened his nationwide campaign on the referendum, and De Gaulle appealed for what he called a massive and forthright expression of support.

He placed no conditions on peace talks with the rebels. He said that once the fighting and terrorism has ceased, he is willing to discuss with the rebels and others the conditions for eventual self-determination.

This was a reference to rebel demands they be consulted on the methods of self-determination so as to ensure a free expression of opinion by Algeria's 10 million Moslems and European residents. The Moslems outnumber Europeans 9-1.

De Gaulle outlined his plans for local autonomy and assured Algerians that eventually they can choose complete independence, continued association with France, or full integration as a French province.

Please Santa---Some Jobs

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A scrawny, 18-foot-high community Christmas tree stands in the nearby town of Emeich.

The tree is decorated with tin cans and other junk. Beside the tree is a sign that reads: "A depressed town. Please, Santa, bring us some jobs. Merry Christmas to all."

The town's 775 residents lost their only industry, a coal mine, six years ago.

A Record 200,000 Visit Kennesaw

A record was set Monday at Kennesaw Mountain National Battlefield Park when the 200,000th person for the year registered at the park museum.

The visitors were a honeymoon couple, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Russell from Hendersonville, N. C.

Tello Hails Kennedy

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Foreign Minister Manuel Tello will head Mexico's delegation at the inauguration of President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Touring the park, the couple expressed much interest in the battlefield and the Marietta area. Commemorating the occasion, Mayor Sam Welch of Marietta presented the couple with $250,000 in Confederate money, and commented: "It is indeed a pleasure when people from such a fine resort area as Hendersonville compliment Marietta and Kennesaw Park."

Previous travel records for the area were set in 1958 when a total of 188,678 persons visited the park.

Chest Here Includes Clayton

The Metropolitan Atlanta Community Chest has been expanded to include Clayton County, a move made at the request of the Clayton County Chamber of Commerce, it was announced Tuesday.

The expanded area — the result of a two-year study — will now cover the four-county area of Fulton, DeKalb, Cobb and Clayton.

Chest president Virgil W. Milton said the merger will make it easier for Clayton County residents who work in Atlanta to support local services through payroll giving at work.

Clayton agencies to be included in the 1961 chest campaign are Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Mental Health Association and Family Care, which were formerly in the Clayton County Community Chest.

The Metropolitan Atlanta Community Chest raises funds in October jointly with the Red Cross under the name of the United Appeal.

Saul Postal, Brooklyn attorney, received double satisfaction from his play of today's four-spade contract. Not satisfied with end playing his West opponent to assure the contract, he then proceeded to squeeze him to pick up an over-trick.

Mr. Postal started with eight top tricks—four spades, a heart, two diamonds and a club. A club finesse gave him his ninth trick and, by end playing West, he gained the gamegoing trick, no matter which of the three side suits West returned. Finally, a squeeze in hearts and clubs brought in the over-trick.

West opened the queen of diamonds, and South took it with the king successfully finessed the jack of clubs and led the eight of spades, which removed the lone ace. West sent back the jack of diamonds, won on the board with the ace, and the nine of spades followed. West showing out. Declarer next led dummy's remaining diamond and discarded a losing heart, letting West win the trick with the diamond 10.

This was the situation:

March of Dimes Sets 1961 Goal Of $45 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Foundation Tuesday set a $45 million goal for its 1961 "March of Dimes" drive to aid victims of polio, arthritis, and birth defects.

The foundation also announced that it will set up a clinic in January at Children's Hospital here for diagnosis and treatment of youngsters with birth defects affecting the central nervous system.

Two similar clinics sponsored by the foundation are in operation at Children's Hospital, Columbus, Ohio, and Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn.

The 1961 "March of Dimes" drive will be conducted during the month of January. The $45 million goal compared with $30 million the foundation collected last year.

Closing Schools Would Delight Khrushchev, Bishop Warns

Soviet Premier Khrushchev would be "exceedingly happy if we were to close up our schools," Methodist Bishop John Owen Smith told the Atlanta Civitan Club Tuesday.

Bishop Smith recalled Khrushchev's statement that Russia would conquer the West, not with guns, but by "out-educating, out-researching, out-planning and out-producing" her rivals.

And the closing of schools in the South would be playing Russia's game by halting the educational program of part of the nation, he said.

IDEAS VITAL

America, he added, can become so obsessed with the idea of besting Russia with dollars and guns that she will overlook the only effective weapon in the battle for men's minds: ideas.

The Civitans brought to the meeting gifts that will be distributed to patients at Milledgeville State Hospital and the Gracewood School for retarded children.

Atlanta area Methodist ministers meanwhile have called on the General Assembly to adopt open-schools legislation at the 1961 session.

RESOLUTION CITED

Cases in other states, the Methodist Ministerial Assn. of Greater Atlanta declared, have established "the futility of continued defiance of the national laws and the undesirable results it brings to the life of the community."

The resolution, adopted unanimously by some 50 Atlanta area ministers at a meeting Monday, declared:

"Our 'one nation under God, indivisible' has reached a time in history when for its own inner strength and for its world leadership, it must demonstrate a recognition that the era of master-servant relationship has passed."

The ministers requested action "at this session of the Legislature which will free communities most immediately and vitally concerned to continue, if they wish, their program of public schools without jeopardy. . . ."

CHURCH ACTS

"Based on the Christian way of life, we believe it is more important to continue and advance the welfare of our children through the program of public education within the framework of law and order than to resort to anarchy for the sake of controversial customs and traditions," the resolution said.

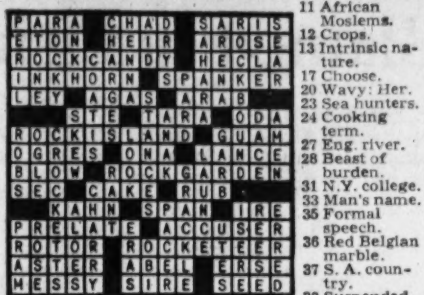

Another open-schools resolution has been adopted by Peachtree Road Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The resolution cited the need for schools, the inadequacy of private school plans and the legal impossibility of closing some public schools while leaving others open.

Fire Kills All 3 As Father Tries To Rescue Boys

ST. CLOUD, Fla. (AP)—A father and two of his sons burned to death Tuesday in a fire that swept through their two-story frame house shortly after midnight.

The dead were William R. Warinner, 40, employed as a mechanic in Orlando, and his sons, Thomas Richard, 13, and Michael J., 7.

Firemen said Mrs. Warinner reported her husband broke a window out downstairs and helped her and her daughter out and then went back in an effort to rescue the two boys.

Dobbins Unit Speeds Data On Weather

Dobbins Air Force Base is one of 650 government, military and other receiving stations in 330 cities across the nation which Tuesday began participating in a new high-speed, 25,000-mile facsimile network.

U.S. Weather Bureau maps and other data will be transmitted. Western Union, which leases the system to the Weather Bureau, reported it is "twice as fast and capable of transmitting twice the number of maps" as the old facsimile system.

Western Union spokesmen said more than 100 regularly scheduled weather analysis and forecast changes will be transmitted every 24 hours. Information will originate from the national meteorological center in Maryland and the national "severe local storm" center at Kansas City.

The system can carry a reproduction measuring 18x36 inches in less than 30 minutes, officials said. Weather Bureau data also goes to business and industry customers who have been cleared by the bureau to receive the information.

Oklahoma GOP Hits Electoral Vote for Byrd

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—State Republican chairman Henry Bellmon said the Republican Party was not responsible for the action of elector Henry Irwin who cast his electoral vote Monday for Sen. Harry Byrd, D-Va., for president. Oklahoma's seven other votes went to Vice President Richard Nixon, who carried the state.

"Irwin acted entirely on his own," said Bellmon, "for reasons I don't understand. He apparently feels his opinion is superior to the judgment of the one-half million voters who chose Richard Nixon."

Bellmon said Irwin's action was "irresponsible" and demonstrates the need for a change in the nation's electoral system.

Gov. J. Howard Edmondson, a Democrat, agreed in the need for for electors to vote for the candidate to make it mandatory date receiving the majority vote.

AUGUSTA BROTHERS GET TO GREENVILLE

2 Youngsters Steal Truck, Drive Off to Visit Grandma

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Over the river and through the woods towards grandmother's house they went; two little boys hardly big enough to steer the pickup truck they had stolen.

Freddy and Teddy, brothers of 10 and 12, wanted to visit grandmother at Christmas. So they stole a pickup truck in Augusta, Ga., and headed for grandmother's house in Johnson City, Tenn.

The 10-year-old was driving when they were spotted by Greenville police about 2 a.m. Tuesday — four hours after they were reported missing at Augusta and about 115 miles further along toward grandmother's house.

"We saw the truck turning into College Street," said Patrolman T. E. Compton, "and it hit the traffic island. At first we thought there was no driver. Then we saw it was a couple of kids. The younger one was driving; the older one was helping steer."

BACK YARD DRIVER

Freddy, the younger one, told the astonished policemen he learned to drive by experimenting with a 1952 car in his back yard.

The boys said they had been living with their grandmother in Johnson City and only recently went to live with their mother and stepfather in Augusta.

With Christmas coming on, he said, Johnson City seemed the place to be.

The truck belongs to Augusta Postman L. E. Tinney. It was stolen from in front of the Post Office while he was inside collecting mail.

When the trip came to a halt in Greenville, the boys had one dollar between them. There wasn't even a road map in the truck and the gas tank was about half full.

SANTA MAY BE MAD

The weary travelers spent the night at the Greenville Detention Home and were to be returned to Augusta by their mother.

She told the boys maybe grandmother might come to visit them for Christmas.

As for the federal laws broken by stealing a postman's truck and taking it across a state line, policeman Compton offered this speculation with a grin:

"I don't think anybody's going to charge these kids—but I bet Santa is going to be mighty mad."

Dealer Fined $250 for Storing Whisky Illegally

An Atlanta retail liquor dealer was fined $250 and put on probation for 12 months by State Revenue Commissioner Dixon Oxford Tuesday for illegally storing whisky.

Oxford said he imposed the penalty on E. A. Alexandrou, operator of the Dou-Ana Liquor Store at 174 Whitehall St., SW, after a hearing Tuesday.

Oxford reported that his agents Friday found bottles of liquor in sacks under a counter in a restaurant which Alexandrou operates next door to the liquor store.

No liquor dealer is allowed to store whisky in a restaurant, Oxford said. He said the dealer claimed he stored the whisky in the restaurant because "he didn't have room for it in his whisky store."

Industrial Pollution Blamed in Fish Kill

Extreme acidity discharged from an industrial source killed fish in five miles of Gum Creek and in a 40-acre lake in Crisp County, the State Game and Fish Commission reported Tuesday.

Howard Zeller, commission biologist, said the fish-killing was investigated by the department and the acidity was traced to an industrial source three miles above the Cordele sewage treatment plant.

Zeller said the investigation showed Cordele's treatment system to be "thorough and adequate."

Results of the investigation will be turned over to the Georgia Water Quality Council, the official board to review water pollution cases, for action. This will be done at the board's meeting in January, Zeller said.

The biologist said the commission had been unable to pin-point the source of the pollution because of heavy rains which diluted the acid discharge.

The commission first received a report on the matter Friday and it was investigated Friday and Monday.

'Who Wants a Doll for Christmas?'

FORT STEWART—Alice, Peggy and Pamela Taylor don't especially want dolls this Christmas. They say they received their Christmas gifts last month—a baby sister for each. Holding the babies are, left to right, Alice with Amie Louise, Peggy with Betty Jean and Pamela with Carol Sue. The triplets, daughters of Sgt. First Class and Mrs. Harold D. Taylor, are six weeks old. Peggy, center, seems to be asking, "Don't you think mine is the prettiest?" And Amie Louise, in Peggy's arms, gives the photographer a wide-eyed stare. Her sisters slept right through the session.

Caretaker Shot, Flees, Dies in Car

Wounded by Mystery Gunman, Dying Negro Drives Away

A Negro caretaker, fleeing a mystery gunman's shots in a Clayton County cemetery, managed to leap into his car and drive a quarter-mile down the South Expressway before dying from a bullet in his back.

The victim was identified by Clayton Police Chief Howard Smith as Fred Johnson of 973 Parsons St., S.W.

The assailant fired a second shot as Johnson drove away. Smith said. That bullet smashed the windshield but missed the driver.

The car, with the stricken man at the wheel, crossed the busy Expressway and struck an embankment on the other side.

Patrolman Wace Scott, off duty, was driving past and saw the car cross the Expressway. He stopped to investigate and found the driver wounded.

Scott said Johnson attempted to say something, but was unable to speak coherently. Johnson was pronounced dead a few moments later.

Smith said Johnson had $23 in his pocket, but added that did not rule out the possibility of attempted robbery as a motive.

Officers established definitely

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, Wednesday, Dec. 21, 1960 17

that Johnson, an employee at Carver Memorial Cemetery, was on the ground when wounded, Smith related. He said car tracks indicated he ran to the car and drove rapidly away, evidently seeking help for his wound.

Clayton officers with bloodhounds followed a trail from the cemetery a considerable distance across a golf course nearby and through a wooded area.

U.S., State Join to Hunt Mableton Drug Thieves

MABLETON (UPI)—Federal and state agents Tuesday launched a search for two or more "professional burglars" who cut their way into a drug store here and made off with narcotics worth $12,000 on the black market.

GBI Agent Ralph Ruff said the burglars cut through a four-inch concrete slab on the roof of the one-story Mableton Pharmacy. He said the narcotics they stole were valued at $2,000 by the drug-store, but would be worth six times this much when sold for illegal purposes.

Cobb County Detective Superintendent Roy McLarty described the burglary as a professional job and said whoever the bandits were, "they seemed to know what they were doing."

McLarty said the burglars took only the more powerful drugs, leaving the weaker ones behind. They also stripped a safe but no cash was taken since it was empty. They made off with other items such as cameras.

The total loss was not completely known, pending a complete inventory.

McLarty said the bandits placed a ladder at the rear of the pharmacy, climbed to the roof, cut a hole in the ceiling and dropped through.

On their return, they used a stepladder to get back through the hole.

He said all the doors had burglar alarms.

The drug store is located about 10 miles west of Atlanta and 10 miles south of Marietta. Mableton, an unincorporated town, is actually a spread-out subdivision.

Weddings and Engagements Are Announced

STOWERS-WOOTEN

Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Stowers of Atlanta, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Tanya Michele to H. Harlan Wooten, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Wooten, which took place Sunday, Dec. 4.

Mrs. Wooten is presently employed by American Export Lines in Atlanta. Mr. Wooten is in the Air Force, stationed at Handscomb Field.

EASON-ROBINSON

The Bowdon Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Patricia Louise Eason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hampton Eason, to William Mack Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron F. Robinson. Rev. Joseph E. Abstance officiated.

Miss Peggy Engrekin was maid of honor and Miss Moya Gene Stogrin, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Best man was Larry Grimmett and ushers were Robert Ballenger, Ted Beavers, Merrill Benefield and Charles Robinson, cousin of the groom.

A reception given by the bride's parents followed the ceremony.

WEBB-MICHAEL

Mr. and Mrs. John O. Webb Jr. of Mesa, Ariz., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Joanne Webb, to Leroy Michael Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Michael Sr. of Athens.

The bride is a graduate of Auburn University. Prior to moving to Arizona, she was employed by the Birmingham Trust National Bank in Birmingham, Ala.

The groom is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Michael of Athens. He is a graduate of the University of Georgia and the University of Michigan Law School.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Elbert S. Morford on Dec. 10 at the First Methodist Church in Mesa, Ariz.

After a wedding trip during the holidays, Mr. and Mrs. Michael will reside in Mesa.

HORNE-CHANDLER

Miss Brenda Joyce Horne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Horne Jr., of Forest Park, was married to Ronnie Wayne Chandler, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Fred Chandler of Conyers, on November 8.

The couple will make their home in Conyers.

HALL-MARTIN

CWO and Mrs. James DeLeon Hall of Raeford, N.C., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss June Tully Hall, to Marvin Hampton Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Temple Martin of Murfreesboro, Tenn.

The bride-elect graduated from Hoke County High School and Agnes Scott College. She studied at the Alliance Française and spent her junior year at Reid Hall in Paris.

Mr. Martin graduated from the Georgia Institute of Technology and was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges. He is presently associated with Custom-Bilt Homes in Murfreesboro, Tenn.

An April wedding is planned.

HEYMAN-YUDELSON

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph K. Heyman announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Barbara Jo Heyman, to Julian Yudelsohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Yudelsohn.

The bride-elect, a graduate of North Fulton High School, is a senior at Smith College.

Mr. Yudelsohn is a graduate of Grady High School and the University of Pennsylvania. He is presently serving in the Army Finance School at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

A late June wedding is planned.

DUNBAR-BLUE

Miss Fay Dunbar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Dunbar of Vienna, and Charles Blue of Albany were married Dec. 11 at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss LaRue Burnham of Albany was the maid of honor and Floyd Colson of Albany was best man.

A reception was held after the ceremony. After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Albany.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McKinney, and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Greene of Atlanta.

Flatter Your Figure-- Regard Fads Sensibly!

One of the first rules of fashion is to wear clothes that flatter your figure rather than follow the fad of the day. If a new rage happens to look well on you, fine, but if it doesn't, forget it!

Q. Would you please advise how I can adjust a dress or blouse pattern to fit across the shoulders. My shoulders are extremely straight and most patterns are made too sloping for me.—Mrs. T. S.

A. Draw a line from shoulder seam, about 3 inches in from armhole, straight down to about 1½ inches above bottom of armhole. Cut along this line. Spread section A away from section B the necessary amount. Slide a piece of tissue underneath and pin pattern to it. Make a new shoulder line, from neckline or shoulder darts to top of armhole. This is important, in order to keep the armhole depth the same and so no change is necessary in sleeve top. Make same alteration for front and back pieces. (See illustration.)

Q. My daughter is only 14 years old but her figure is well developed, especially her bust (34 B), with a 20-inch waist. My husband and I have begged her to stop wearing sweaters to school (or anywhere) because she looks too sexy and I have often heard the boys making remarks as she walks by. But she won't listen to us. What do you think? Should she or shouldn't she? Maybe she will listen to you. By the way, her excuse is that all the girls wear them, and why should she be different.—Mrs. B. V.

A. My answer is she should not. Shirts and blouses are just as stylish as sweaters and she'll look like a lady in them instead of a sex-pot. Tell her, if she wants to look chic and fashion-wise (now and always) it's smarter not to look like a carbon copy of all the other girls.

Q. How can I make a facing for a V neckline without a pattern? I have a dress pattern with a jewel neckline and I want to cut it into a V but do not know how to face it.—Mrs. H. B.

A. Cut a bias facing 1½ inches wide and the length of the neckline all around. Pin and baste to neck edge of dress, right sides together. Allow yourself enough fabric at the point of the neck to seam the two ends together. Stitch facing to neck edge; trim seam. Clip into the seam every inch or so. Turn facing to the inside. Turn facing edge under about ¼ inch and edge stitch. Then blind-stitch facing to dress.

What?! St. Nick's Almost Here And Your Decorations Aren't Up?

By YOLANDE GWIN
Instant coffee, instant tea,
Christmas is coming for little ole me. . . .

And for you, too, but HAVE you put up the decorations?
Have you gotten the traditional swags to drape over the fireplace? Or the studied casualness of candles arising out of a bed of holly or pine or something?

If you are a career miss or a bachelor and don't want Santa to catch you with your decorations down instead of up, take heart. There is still time to make the old home place look like the pictures on the cards or in the home decorating magazines.

The secret is instant decorations.
Why heavens above,
there's even plastic mistletoe that looks so real that you are liable to kiss the first person that drifts by. And another delightful thought—it will LAST.
Just think you can use it all next summer—if you feel that you need a legal excuse for a kiss now and then.

SANTA'S GREEN

Anyway, there is a shop here in town that is so Christmasy that even Santa would feel envious.

Here's a quick run down on some of the instant decorations you can get as the zero hour nears and you are still addressing cards.

For the merrie-old-England atmosphere there is a lantern that looks just like it came from a Charles Dickens scene.

If the tropics are your dish why not string swags of bright yellow lemons up and down the stairway or around the door entrance or even over the windows. Entwined with greens

they give a sparkling effect with tiny electric lights blinking away.

FORMAL EGGNOG

Should you want to go formal with your eggnog and fruit cake there is an epergne which looks like it was swiped from a museum. It's plastic and can be filled with either fresh or artificial flowers.

If you are a bit flighty or a bird lover there are hundreds of our little feathered friends to perch on the chandelier.

There is a 16-bran' candelabra placed on a cluster of white foilage which looks as though it had been touched by Frosty, the Snow Man. Tall slim red candles give a contrasting touch of beauty.

For the tea drinkers there is a beautiful Japanese teapot, called a shudei, which is filled with seasonal flowers. This is not only an instant gift but is also lasting.

Speaking of the Orient, there is an item which not only makes an effective holiday setting but it too can be used as a permanent arrangement. It features a pair of metal ducks and a ming tree. The ducks, by the way, have a whimsical look for the season—they are wearing bows of red ribbon

MUSICAL TREES

Miniature trees on a revolving base which plays "Jingle Bells" is the perfect answer for those who want a bit of Christmas for the bedside table or the coffee table or any other table for that matter. There are trees made entirely of candy.
There are ones made of a series of graduated sizes of umbrellas. If you have been dreaming about fancy wall

HOW'S THIS FOR CENTER OF ATTRACTION?
Note the Bubbles That Look Like Snowdrops

BY GEORGE

Ah, Jealousy! 'Tis Immature

DEAR GEORGE:

Just because I am a young divorcee, with a good face and
neighborhood—the women are all married and are jealous of me, although I certainly never pay any attention to their husbands even though some of them are living dolls. (Particularly the young salesman across the street.) How can I make friends of these housewives?

LITTLE RED

DEAR LITTLE RED:

Merely show these young women what a basically immature emotion jealousy is. The best way to do this is to latch on to a wildly jealous steady boy friend or husband, preferably a fullback type, with a bad temper. (Particularly, warn the young salesman across the street.)

DEAR GEORGE:

Is there really a Santa Claus?

VIRGINIA.

DEAR VIRGINIA:

Yes, Virginia, there—look, Virginia: How many times do you have to be told?

which are of aluminum—but these are different. They have been flocked with artificial snow. They look so real you'll button up your overcoat to keep from freezing.

Should there be some children who demand they want their room decorated for Santa, there are containers such as carts, mugs and dolls which are filled with miniature poinsettia, cedar and the like.

If you don't have the time nor the steady nerves to make a tree from colored tree balls, you can get one at this shop with the flip of a coin. There are also many two-faced arrangements—they are the same on each side—and are low enough for a dining table center piece.

So, come on Santa, everything will be ready on the home front!

Gifts for Orphans

Soldiers Find Ticket to Merry Christmas, And a Bright Holiday Away From Home

By BETTY CARROLLTON

A Christmas day that dawns far from home and loved ones lacks many of the ingredients for happy holidays.

But a group of soldiers at Atlanta General Depot, unable to go home for Christmas, plan what they believe will be a near-perfect holiday here: They'll share the spirit of Christmas by turning Santa for the benefit of some 40 orphans.

The soldier Santas, attached to the 48th Transportation Co., will don the merry characteristics, if not the red-and-white suit

Pfc. Fyfe, who suggested the visit to the children's home, has a particular interest in orphans, and a special reason for revealing it. But that's another story. It'll appear in Thursday's Atlanta Constitution.

of jolly St. Nick when they visit the Pine Mountain Baptist Children's Home near Zebulon Christmas Eve.

FROM AFAR

Men of the 48th come from many distant states: California, Idaho, New York, Utah, Maine, Wisconsin. Two are from Hilo, Hawaii. One young soldier's mother is on Formosa. It is impossible for those men to go home for Christmas.

With the holidays approaching, they could have exchanged gifts and had their own tree at the base. But somehow this plan did not seem to meet the requirements of a merry Yule. They agreed it wasn't really how they'd like to spend Christmas in Georgia.

DISCUSSED SITUATION

Pfc. Gary Froman of Palos Verdes, Calif., Pfc. Stan Pawen-ski of Buffalo, N.Y., and SF-4 Tom Seals of Arlington, Calif., were discussing the situation: "Perhaps we could find a small group of children who could use some extra Christmas gifts," mused one.

Pfc. Charles Fyfe, a comparative newcomer to the company, joined them.

"What about orphans?" he asked.

He got an immediate and enthusiastic response.

The four servicemen "tried out" the idea among "Younger's Platoon," their own group.

"They're a swell bunch of guys," Gary reports. "They were all for it."

Their commanding officer, Capt. Alfred B. Jarden, gave his wholehearted support.

3-HOUR SUCCESS

"It took us three hours to get a total contribution of $120," related Pfc. Fyfe, who was born in Edinburgh and grew up in orphanages in England and Scotland.

"The only reason it took so long," he continued, "was because the men were scattered over a large work area. They all came through as soon as they were contacted."

One member of the group, Wallace C. Pryor, lives at Zebulon.
Nearby, he told the four soldiers, is the Pine Mountain Baptist Children's home, with about 40 youngsters currently in residence. He was sure they'd appreciate an extra visit from Santa.

With Capt. Jarden's approval, the four servicemen visited the Pine Mountain home, where they stayed for dinner and conferred with the superintendent. With his help, the soldiers made a Christmas gift list, with no child forgotten.

SHOPPING COMPLETED

Now the men have completed their special Christmas shopping: Little red wagons were bought for the younger boys, games for the "in-betweens," shampoo and bobby pins for the teen-age girls, shoeshine kits and hair brushes for the soon-to-be-grown-up young men.

Some of the men of the 48th—those who are lucky enough to go home for Christmas—plan to visit the Pine Mountain institution before they leave Atlanta for the holidays. Those who will be unable to visit the home will be represented by the group who'll head for Zebulon Christmas Eve—Pfc's Froman, Pawen-ski, Fyfe, and SP-4 Seals.

"We won't have Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer," one of the boys admitted, "but we do plan to make the visit as merry as possible for the youngsters."

Racial Eviction Case On Trial in Memphis

By JOHN CUNIFF

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Witnesses testified Tuesday that Negro sharecroppers were being forced from a west Tennessee county because they tried to vote. The defense contended that farm mechanization was the cause.

The conflict came during a hearing on a request for a federal injunction to prevent 37 white landowners in Haywood County from evicting 300 Negroes who farmed their lands.

The Justice Department, citing the Civil Rights Act of 1957, claims the eviction notices resulted from the Negroes' desire to vote.

Judge Marion S. Boyd adjourned the hearing until Wednesday, when the defense is expected to put its first witnesses on the stand.

The Civil Rights Division claims the eviction notices, timed for the end of the year, were mailed shortly after Haywood County opened its registration books to Negroes for probably the first time this century.

When President-elect John F. Kennedy's government takes office, the prime minister said "there will be a wide exchange of views with them which will cover such matters" as a meeting with Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Woodrow Wyatt, a labor questioner, urged Macmillan to include Communist China in any East-West parleys. The prime minister told the House of Commons he would consider that point. But, he pointed out, France had been omitted from Wyatt's original question.

France, he noted, is one of the four powers responsible for "the German settlement and must take part in any discussions of this kind."

The reference to a German settlement which, at the moment, hangs on the problem of West Berlin, was interpreted by diplomatic sources as a reflection of the present British attitude toward a summit conference.

This is, that such a conference is not advisable without prolonged diplomatic preparation so long as the Berlin situation is reasonably quiet. This government and the outgoing U.S. administration share the view that there will be trouble over Berlin early in the new year.

This will probably take the form envisaged by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter at Paris: Soviet signature of a peace treaty with the Communist government in East Germany and assumption by the latter of control over access to West Berlin.

Indictment Returned in $2,019 Robbery

The Fulton County Grand Jury indicted Roy M. Williams on charges of robbing an Atlanta finance company manager of $2,019 at gunpoint.

The jury also returned true bills against two other men on burglary charges. Harry E. Schulten was indicted on six counts and Paul R. Cox on four. Schulten and Cox were indicted jointly on charges of breaking and entering a truck-leasing company office and the office of a College Park realtor.

John S. Eakins was indicted on charges he robbed Mrs. Mildred Allen at Trent's Drive-In Grocery, 164 Degress Ave.

Billion Bushels Of Wheat Seen

WASHINGTON — A winter wheat crop of 1,034,400,000 bushels next year was forecast Tuesday by the Agriculture Department.

A crop of this size would help add to a record surplus already in existence. Such a crop would be 7 per cent smaller than this year's crop but nearly one-fourth larger than average and the fifth largest production of record.

2 Die as Car Rams Tractor

Constitution State News Service
MT. VERNON — Two young Montgomery County boys were killed late Tuesday when the auto they occupied struck a parked farm tractor, the State Patrol said.

They were listed as Patrick H. Fountain, 12, and Donald Cason, 14, both of Mt. Vernon.

The patrol said the incident occurred 3 1/2 miles north of Mt. Vernon on U. S. 221.

Survivors include two brothers and a sister.

E. L. Fowler Dies at Home; Lawyer, Church Leader
E. L. Fowler, an Atlanta lawyer, died Tuesday at his home at 137 Feld Ave., Decatur.

Born at Cumming, Mr. Fowler had lived here most of his life. He was a member of the American, Georgia and Atlanta bar associations.

An active church worker, Mr. Fowler had taught the Crusaders Men's Bible Class at White Oak Baptist Church for 18 years. He had also taught Bible and Sunday School at Capitol Avenue, Capitol View and Morningside Baptist churches.

Funeral services will be at 4 p.m. Wednesday at Spring Hill. The Rev. H. T. Daniel will officiate. Burial will be in Decatur Cemetery.

Survivors include his wife, the former Lououida Felt; a daughter, Miss Marion Fowler, Decatur, and a sister, Mrs. W. M. Martin, Cumming.

Mrs. Mary Ladavia Hannah Jenkins died at the age of 93 Tuesday at her home, 2332 Lindmont Cir., N.E.

Graveside services will be at 2:30 p.m. Thursday in Westview Cemetery. The Rev. Ted Dougherty will officiate.

Mrs. Jenkins was a member of Oakhurst Baptist Church and the Better Half Division of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. She long had been active in Atlanta civic affairs, relatives said.

She was the widow of A. S. Jenkins.

On their 50th wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins celebrated by having the ceremony performed again. Two other members of the original wedding party were present.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. G. R. Albert and Mrs. Mabel C. Morris, both of Atlanta, and Mrs. C. T. Forster, St. Petersburg, Fla.; four sons, Harry S., Earl C., Fred W. and Roy A. Jenkins, and two brothers, J. S. and S. J. Hannah, all of Atlanta.

MORTUARY

HENRY M. GARNER
Funeral services for Henry M. Garner, 64, of Peachtree Rd., who died Monday night in a private hospital, will be at 1 p.m. Wednesday at Spring Hill. The Rev. Samuel Dixon and the Rev. C. J. Mowell Sr. will officiate. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery, Sandy Springs.

Cecil H. Manders
Cecil H. Manders, 73, who retired eight years ago as a metal worker for Warren Refrigeration Co., died late Monday night on the way to a hospital. His home was at 3129 Miami St., Scottsdale.

Mr. Manders was the father of W. G. (Pete) Manders, Atlanta police officer. Patrolman Manders said his father apparently died of a heart attack.

Born in Barnesville and reared in Cedartown, Mr. Manders lived in the Atlanta area most of his life. He was a member of Calvary Baptist Church.

Funeral services will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday at Trinity Chapel. The Rev. Jimmy Thompson will officiate. Burial will be in Melwood Cemetery.

Survivors also include his wife, the former Caddie Roberts; two other sons, C. H. Manders, Atlanta, and E. L. Manders, Scottsdale; six sisters, Mrs. Lizzie Taylor, McDonough; Mrs. H. J. Rawes, Mrs. Sam Robertson and Mrs. M. Z. Rawes, all of Atlanta; Mrs. Inman George, Clarkston, and Mrs. John Jolley, College Park; three brothers, J. W. Manders, Smyrna; H. G. Manders, Stockbridge, and J. B. Manders, Augusta, and a stepmother, Mrs. J. A. Manders, College Park.

Mrs. W. H. Holcomb
Mrs. Marjorie Hopper Holcomb, 79, mother of Mrs. Catherine Huffman of 1488 Stewart Ave., S.W., died unexpectedly Tuesday night at Milledgeville.

Born at Ranger, Mrs. Holcomb lived there and at Oakman, in Gordon County, until the death of her husband, William H. Holcomb, in 1944. She moved here in 1950 to live with Mrs. Huffman.

Mrs. Holcomb was a member of Ranger Methodist Church.

Funeral services and burial will be at Calhoun.

Survivors also include a sister, Mrs. Minnie Harris, Ranger, and three brothers, Elbert Hopper, Ranger; Ben Hopper, Albany, and Sanford Hopper, Etowah, Tenn.

Mrs. Mattilou Wright
Mrs. Mattilou Johnson Wright, 75, who moved from Atlanta to Savannah in 1946, died Monday in Seattle, Wash., where she was visiting a daughter, Mrs. Seth W. Morrison.

Mrs. Wright lived in Savannah with another daughter, Mrs. Wimburn T. Rogers.

A native of Manchester, Mrs. Wright was the widow of Clem Wright, an engineer with the State Highway Department, who died in 1946.

Funeral plans for Mrs. Wright will be announced by Cox Funeral Home, Manchester.

Smith Witham Dies; Executive Of C&S Bank
Smith Witham, 72, who retired six years ago as a vice president of the Citizens & Southern National Bank, died Tuesday in a private hospital.

Mr. Witham lived at 167 Elizabeth St., N.E.

He had been in the banking and finance business more than 20 years when he joined C & S in December, 1929.

After his retirement as officer in charge of buildings and maintenance, Mr. Witham did real estate appraisals for C & S.

A native of Gloucester City, N.J., Mr. Witham was a member of Masonic Lodge No. 1111 of El Paso, Tex., and All Saints Episcopal Church here.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Lowndes' Chapel. The Rev. Frank Ross will officiate. Burial will be in Lawrenceville city cemetery.

Survivors include a brother, William W. Witham, Atlanta.

LET JOE TELL IT, HIMSELF
JOE'S FATHER and mother can remember when, because of his shyness, they would have to come to this place during a conversation with strangers and say, "What Joe means is this..." But no longer. Today, Joe can speak for himself... and does. Not that he is loud or talks too much. Always polite and tactful, he knows when to speak and what he says is usually worth hearing. A change in Joe was apparent within a month after he became a newspaper carrier — salesman. Since you will need to know how to talk with people the rest of your life, no matter what type of work you do, I think it is important you begin learning. Joe's father told him, "And one of the finest ways to learn is to have your own newspaper route." Joe knows now this was good advice. And he can see how proud his father is every time he says, "Let Joe tell it, himself."

Charlie ROBERTS

El Senor Hero

Al Campanis, a Latin-from-Manhattan type, sometimes gets in Dutch with the Irishman who owns the Los Angeles Dodgers for doing odd jobs he's not paid to do. At least, that's what Walter O'Malley, the Irishman, likes to imply jokingly at times with the threat, "I'm going to give him back to the Indians."

Sir Walter, piously talking over the open neck of a sport shirt that would put to shame Joseph's coat of many colors, was impressing Mrs. J. Outlar, Mrs. C. Roberts and other ladies last spring training in Dodgertown with a vivid description of Mr. Campanis' unorthodox idea of devotion to duty as director of Dodger scouting.

Roberts

"I send him to Cuba to look at a shortstop and he comes back with the Rhumba," quipped the landlord of Chavez Ravine as Campanis listened passively. "I send him to Puerto Rico to check on a pitcher and he comes back with the Cha-Cha."

"From Panama he brings back the Samba, from Venezuela the Mirengue, from Mexico the Mambo. Al's brought back all the Latin dances but not any baseball players. With Campanis under contract, maybe I'm in the wrong business. I should go into competition with Arthur Murray."

Campanis' penchant for indulging in extracurricular pursuits in far away places with strange sounding names evidenced itself again this winter when he made headlines in Maracaibo by saving a 3-year-old boy from drowning in the Del Lago Hotel pool.

Seeing the tot slowly sinking in the deep end, Campanis jumped fully clothed into the pool and pulled him to safety. Then with artificial respiration he learned while in military service, the Dodger do-gooder returned the child to normalcy.

—Boy's Mother, Campanis Asleep on Job

Campanis, who really does look the part of a suave dance instructor, was traveling light with only one pair of shoes. After his unscheduled dunking, he had to stuff the toes with paper every night to keep them from curling. His suit took several days to get back to normal, but his watch never quit ticking.

Hotel guests started calling him "Senor Hero" after the rescue, but bossman O'Malley probably will be calling him to task after he hears the rest of the story. Campanis forgot to get the boy's name.

"The boy's mother was sleeping in a chair and when someone awakened her and related the story to her, she just walked up, took his hand and led him away," related Campanis. "I sure wish I had his name. Some day he might be a ball player, and I'd have the inside track on signing him."

That was the choicest tidbit from the winter leagues, but there were other Hot Stove League morsels that will help satisfy the appetites of Cracker fans and others among Atlanta's baseball hungry.

For instance: Pete Richert, Atlanta's minor leaguer of the year, sat in O'Malley's box during the World Series. And he'll be one of six outstanding rookies who'll report to Dodgertown with the early vanguard of Dodgers.

Rube Walker, who'll return as Atlanta manager, has Dick Tracewski, Jim Koranda, Jim Williams, Dick Scott, Rick Cronk, Ken Rowe, Ernie Rodriguez and Sam Hitcher playing for him at Comercios in Panama. Stan Palys is managing Marlboro in the same league. Al Grandcolas being one of his hired hands. Jay Hankins, Bill Dailey and Don Dillard are other ex-Southern Leaguers in the loop.

—Hendley, Osborne Made AA Glitter Squad

Virlyn Walker, Rube's brother, has been named to manage Wenatchee in the Northwest League. . . . Joe Schultz, Johnny Lipon, Cal Ermer and Johnny Pesky have been named pilots for San Juan, Toronto, Richmond and Seattle. Frank Lucchesi will replace Spook Jacobs at Chattanooga and Frank Skaaf will succeed Skeeter Newsome at Birmingham.

Lefty Don Thompson, 7-5 at Amarillo after failing as a 1960 Cracker, is 4-1 for Pampero with two shutouts and a top pitcher in the Venezuelan League. Thompson and teammates Babe Birrer and Gary Balock spent 18 hours in the clinic in one town because of a mix-up and their inability to speak Spanish.

Bill Lajoie, whose RBI single won a 1-0 game, and four other U.S. athletes returned home when front office hassles caused the Maracaibo Dodgers to throw in the sponge. . . . Maconite Bobby Hendley (Louisville) was one of two pitchers named to the American Assn. all-star team, and he's now on Army duty at Ft. Knox. Atlantan Larry Osborne (Denver) made the team at first base.

Albany native Tom Cheney, Pittsburgh pitcher, had a 3.38 earned-run average at Ponce when he returned home for treatment of a sore arm. . . . Billy Smith, one-time Cracker first sacker, who led all minor league hitters in 1959 (.390) and managed Boise to three straight pennants, has been switched to scouting in California by Milwaukee. . . . East Point's Billy Moran hit .371, hit two homers and batted in seven runs for Toronto in the Little World Series—even though Louisville won.

Options have run out on ex-Crackers Hawk Taylor and John DeMerit, who hit .270 each for Louisville, and Milwaukee must keep 'em or trade 'em. Taylor hit 17 homers, DeMerit 12. . . . Birmingham's Larry DiPippo was a "silver glove" winner as the minor league first baseman with the best fielding average. . . . Chet Nichols (Vancouver) was named Most Valuable Pitcher in the Pacific Coast League. Seattle's Ray Rippelmeyer completed most games (17). Portland's Noel Mickelsen led in strikeouts (156) and defeats (17). All are former Crackers.

And Buzze Bavasi, Dodger veep, says: "There are 180 million people in the U.S. and not more than a half dozen good catchers among them."

Georgia Beaten, Citadel Wins, 90-84

STATESBORO (AP)—East Tennessee State nipped Georgia, 69-67, Tuesday in a basketball game so close the score was tied 12 times and the lead changed hands on 20 occasions.

Gary Daniels scored 38 points to lead the Citadel to a 90-84 victory over Georgia Southern in the nightcap of the collegiate double-header.

It was the first game of a college double-header. The second game matched The Citadel and host Georgia Southern.

The Georgia Bulldogs led by four points three different times during the nip-and-tuck contest and the biggest lead the East Tennessee Buccaneers had was three points. The Buccaneers were ahead at the half, 36-34.

The Bulldogs were ahead, 67-64, with one minute remaining in the game. But the Buccaneers' Tom Chilton, who leads the Ohio Valley Conference with a 32-point scoring average, sank a basket from close in to make it 67-66.

Georgia missed a layoff. Jim Riddick sent East Tennessee ahead with a hook throw from the corner and Chilton added a free throw to make it East Tennessee 69, Georgia 67.

The Bulldogs missed two shots

PEPPER SAID 'HIGH ON LIST'

RODGERS TO LAND VIRGINIA JOB?

By TED SIMMONS

There appears to be a strong possibility that the mammoth job of rebuilding the University of Virginia's football fortunes will fall to a relative youngster in the coaching profession—ex-Georgia Tech star Pepper Rodgers.

Rumors to that effect gathered momentum Tuesday, and a telephone call to Virginia athletic director Bus Tebell did nothing to dispel them.

"I am certain that Pepper will be given strong consideration," Tebell told The Constitution. "I certainly hope that he is. We had him up here for one spring practice, and we think a great deal of him."

"His name came up promptly when we began looking for a coach."

"As far as I know, the committee has had no coach on campus for an interview. They are still screening some 50 applications which have been turned over to them."

"But Rodgers' name is high on the list, I'm sure of that."

Contacted at Gainesville, Fla., Rodgers told The Constitution he has not applied for the Virginia job, but added, "Friends have recommended me."

If Rodgers succeeds ex-Cavalier coach Dick Voris he will be one of the youngest head football coaches in major college football—and one with one of the biggest tasks.

"I'm very happy at Florida," he said, "but naturally I'd be interested in discussing any job which would further my career."

Voris resigned without finishing his contract at the end of this season after a record-tying 28 straight defeats. Virginia has not won a game since the second one of the 1958 season.

The job would be an ironic switch for the personable 29-year-old Atlanta native. In 13 years of football, as a player and coach, he has never been associated with a loser.

Now an assistant to Ray Graves at the University of Florida, which finished with an 8-2 record and berth in the Gator Bowl, Rodgers rose to stardom as quarterback of the 1951 Georgia Tech team.

The Yellow Jackets won nine and tied one that year, and went on to a 17-14 victory over Baylor in the Orange Bowl.

In 1952, with Rodgers at the helm, Tech won 11 straight and whipped Ole Miss, 24-7, in the Sugar Bowl. In '53, Rodgers last varsity year, the Jackets were 8-2-1 and again went to the Sugar Bowl.

Rodgers was voted Most Outstanding Player in the New Or-

Steelers' Orr Rates Baughan Candidate for Rookie of Year

It was like running a pass pattern. Jimmy Orr bounced off the golf course, dashed in for a shave and then out again for a rehearsal.

Somewhere in between this hurry-scurry, the Pittsburgh Steeler end paused to answer a few questions.

As rookie of the year in the National Football League, class of 1958, the one-time Georgia Bulldog was in a position to look over this year's crop of yearlings and advance an opinion.

"I'll tell you," he began. "That Maxie Baughan had a great year with the Philadelphia Eagles. He did a fine job of linebacking against us only last Sunday. I'd say he'd be a good candidate."

"But don't overlook a couple of other Georgia boys. Charley Britt, out at LA, had a most productive season as a defensive back, and Gordon Kelley was a terrific linebacker at San Francisco. In fact, just the other day I heard a couple of coaches saying Kelley would be a good choice as rookie of the year."

"All of these boys, though deserving, have a strike against them. They play the defense, and it's usually the fellows in the limelight who get the awards, the offensive guys who make the pass catches and long runs."

And so—that would point to pass-snagger Dale Cogdill of Detroit Lions, one of the glamour boys of professional football. Orr hopes he is wrong and either

Oglethorpe, Sewanee Gain Tourney Finals

Petrels Take 89-54 Victory

By TED SIMMONS

Oglethorpe University and the University of the South at Sewanee took entirely different paths in the first annual Oglethorpe Invitational basketball tournament Tuesday night, but for each the destination was the same.

Oglethorpe breezed into the championship finals with an 89-54 victory over Birmingham Southern, Sewanee had to scramble like crazy before turning back Lambuth College, 67-63.

The host Petrels, unbeaten in six starts and rarely pressed in any of them, play Sewanee for the Invitational title Wednesday night at 9 o'clock, following a losers' consolation game which tips off at 7.

It was a big night for the Oglethorpes, who shot well when it counted, swept both backboards clean, and hawked the harried Panthers relentlessly.

Oglethorpe's shifting, clinging defense made a shambles out of Southern's Auburn shuffle. The visitors soon gave it up, taking most of their shots from far outside.

Five Petrels scored in double figures. Sophomore pivot man Morris Mitchell screened, shot and rebounded like a veteran, the team simply out-classed and out-manned the opposition.

But the evening did not all belong to Oglethorpe. The most dazzling performance in either game was an uncanny shooting performance by Sewanee's Sharkey Edgin.

A 6-3 junior forward whom Coach Lou Varnell said was not playing over his head at all, Edgin connected on 11 of his 13 field goal attempts. In the second half he hit nine out of 10. He was four for four from the line for 26 points, high for the night.

The Sewanee victory was as hard-won as Oglethorpe's was easy. Twenty-one times in the first half the lead changed hands or was tied.

It changed or was tied five times in the second—the last time with just 40 seconds remaining.

At the 0:40 mark, Lambuth's Joe Wooten sank a push shot to knot the score at 63-63, and both teams were back where they started. But it wasn't that way for long.

Skipper Smith hit from the side of the circle to put Sewanee back in front 65-63, the Eagles missed a chance to tie it on a one-and-one situation, and Edgin rebounded Sewanee back into possession.

With two seconds left, Marion Tomlin iced it with two true tosses from the charity line.

A disappointing crowd of less than 300 watched the opening teams slug it out. By the time Oglethorpe took the floor, some 600 fans had taken their places. They had missed the most exciting part.

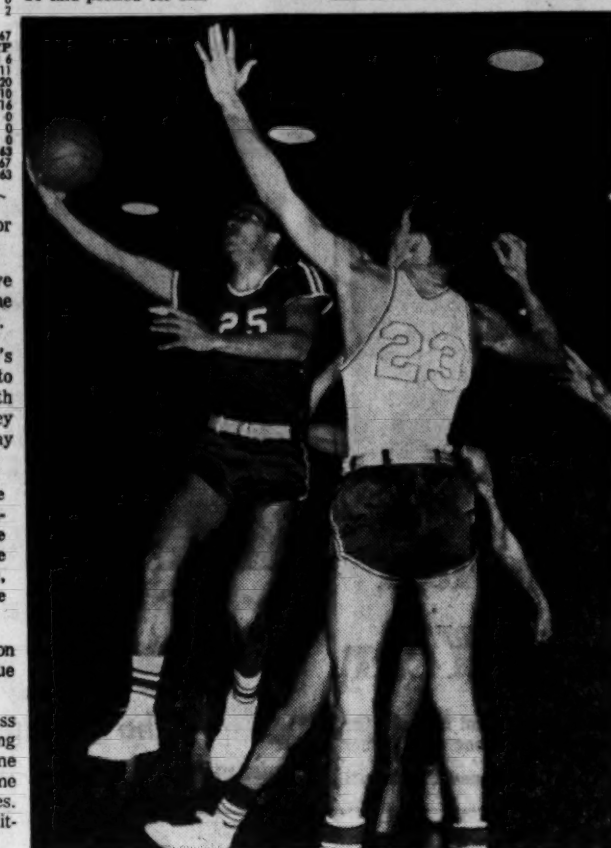

With Mitchell and Bobby Nance carrying the burden of the scoring, the Petrels had a 12-4 lead with 5:17 played. That was about as close as Southern ever came again.

Coach Bill Burch tried zones, man-to-man and a press, all to little avail. The Panthers closed the margin to 34-24 with 3:45 left in the half, but by intermission it was 46-24.

Oglethorpe shot 52 per cent from the floor, despite a wild and erratic finish brought on by its own big lead and Southern's zone press. Mitchell was top man with 18 points and top rebounder with 10.

Nance had 15 points and nine rebounds. Tommy Norwood scored 14 and picked off six.

in the last 12 seconds. Phil Simpson's follow-up of a rebound hung on the rim and fell off as the buzzer sounded.

Kenny Ervin led the East Tennessee attack with 17 points while teammate Chilton had 16. Don Keiser topped the Georgia scoring with 18 points while Pat Casey had 17.

The win was East Tennessee's second in five starts. Georgia now has lost four of the five games played.

Daniels, a 6-foot-5 junior from Canton, Ohio, led both teams in rebounding in addition to being the top scorer. He grabbed 17 rebounds.

The Citadel had a 47-41 halftime lead but Georgia Southern found the range to make it 53-53 with 15 minutes left. At that time The Citadel's reserve guard Charlie Madrazo entered the game and sparked a rally that gave his team 12 straight points. He scored 6 of them himself and helped set up the others.

Georgia Southern rallied again and was trailing by 4 points at 58-54 with 15 seconds left. But Daniels made two points on a layup as the buzzer sounded to make it 60-54.

The Citadel hit 51 per cent of its field goals while Georgia Southern had a 41 percentage figure.

The two-day doubleheader was not a tournament. At the end, however, The Citadel had two victories, Georgia Southern and East Tennessee one win and one loss each and Georgia stood 0-2.

Libertore Hurt In Gator Drill

Minnesota Coaches Fret
Over Healthy Schloredt

From Press Dispatches

Florida's Gators, who just got back from a two-day trip to the Gator Bowl, had star sophomore quarterback Larry Libertore injured in practice.

Libertore collided with halfback Lindy Infante in workouts for the Dec. 31 Gator Bowl game with Baylor, and was limping badly as he left the field. X-rays were to be taken to determine the extent of the injury.

Florida fullbacks Don Goodman reportedly ran well in Tuesday's drills, and Coach Ray Graves was pleased with the kicking accuracy of field goal expert Bill Cash.

Lombardi, Packers Calm In Playoff Preparations

Starr Sure

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The National Football League Championship is at stake, but the Green Bay Packers, champions of the Western Conference, are acting as if the playoff with the Philadelphia Eagles Monday is just another ball game.

After the customary Monday off, the Packers reassembled at City Stadium Tuesday morning for a squad meeting with Coach Vince Lombardi and his assistants. Afterward, there was a short workout in the bright sunshine with the temperature in the mid 20s.

"Sure, this is the big one," said Lombardi, "but we'll follow our usual training routine until we leave for Philadelphia Saturday morning."

The Packer standard formula calls for no contact work but a lot of exercise and work on offensive and defensive formations specifically aimed at the next opponent.

Lombardi's squad is physically sound and he wants to keep it that way.

Lombardi, who transformed the Packers from NFL doormat

Baughan of Georgia Tech or Britt or Kelley of Georgia is the choice.

Since Pittsburgh played both Philadelphia and Green Bay during the season, the next question was a natural: Which will win the NFL championship in their Dec. 26 game?

"Green Bay, I think," answered Orr. "They have been more consistent and man-for-man. I think they are a little better than Philadelphia. They don't have a super star like Van Brocklin (Eagles quarterback) but they are stronger all-around."

"In Jimmy Taylor and Paul Hornung they have two of the finest running backs in the NFL. I don't think there's much doubt Hornung will be named Most Valuable Player in the league. He can do everything."

Orr praised Eagle end Bobby Walston, pass catcher and place-kicker deluxe, for "his best season ever in the pros." Walston is another Wally Butts-trained product.

Bad weather on game day will favor Green Bay even more, according to Orr. "Philadelphia is not a bad weather team," he stated flatly. "They just don't seem to play as well under inclement conditions. On the other hand, Green Bay does very well — they are a good team in bad weather."

Orr made no effort to hide his disappointment of his own part in the NFL campaign during the past season.

"I don't think I was used enough," he said.

Early in September, Cleveland kicking specialist Sam Baker spoke to the Atlanta Quarterback Club and predicted a dip in Baltimore Colt fortunes if the Ponies did not come up with a running game to augment the arm of Johnny Unitas.

Asked to comment on this, Orr replied: "That's exactly what happened. They didn't have the running game to go with the passing."

It was time to dash and Orr jogged off to a rehearsal.

League OKs Kansas City Sale

BOSTON (AP)—The American League club owners Tuesday night approved the purchase of controlling stock in the Kansas City Athletics by insurance executive Charles O. Finley.

The announcement was made by President Joe Cronin of the American League.

Finley's bid for 52 per cent of the A's stock left in the estate of the late Arnold Johnson Monday was approved by Chicago Probate Court Judge Robert Dunne.

The approval was contingent on the league owner's okay of the deal. Finley outbid a Kansas City syndicate by $125,000 for the stock left in Johnson's estate.

Finley said he has no plans to move.

He paid $1,975,000 for the controlling interest in the A's, ending a six-year quest for a major league club.

Things Santa Claus might bring Georgia bowlers this weekend:

RALPH BRUNT—Some sliding pads for that wild slide he makes when he hits a strike.DAVID POTTS—An AJBC sanction for that 712 series the 12-year-old Macon bowler threw last Friday.ED SMITH—Something to slow down that big left-handed bomb he throws.BEN DOWNS—Maybe a "Do-It-Yourself Hypnotism Kit" to do away with the middle man.KARL BARTHOLOMEW—Good health, so that he can get back to full-time bowling.BILL PACE AND JANE LOWRY—Success in the National BPAA All-Star Tournament in California as Georgia representatives.HAROLD ASHER—As much good bowling in tenpins as he has achieved in duckpins.DICK NELSON—Continued bombing when he heads for Warwick, R.I., and the Men's U.S. Duckpin Classic.JOHN HENNECY—Just a few more strikes in a row when he gets that big string going (of late he's twice had nine in a row, twice notched seven straight).

ATLANTA YOUNGSTERS—More workers interested in their welfare such as Jim Newberry, LeRoy Stout and Norman Monfort.THE CITY'S KEGLERS—Strikes on every pitch (what a dull game it would be then) and an early Merry Christmas from this writer.THE 11TH FRAME: Atlanta bowling lost one of its finest young men with the untimely death of 17-year-old Steve Davis last week. This reporter knew big Steve well, and the shock still lingers. We'll always remember his jolly smile and that wicked strike bomb he threw. Our most sincere sympathy goes to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Davis Sr., and his brothers, F. L., John and David.BOB ALLEN FIRED a blistering four-game scratch series of 896 (185-238-247-226), added 64 pins handicap for a 960 report in the men's handicap division of the Suburban Lanes Extravaganza last weekend. L. C. Culpepper and Ken Cope were second and third with 911 and 876. Virginia Pritchett, Inez McMillar and Doris Crum had series of 841, 804 and 793 to take women's handicap, while Tom Portanova of Myrtle Beach, S.C., had an 842 series (213-201-214-214) to cop men's scratch. Bob Bradberry was second at 813. . . . Jesse Bradshaw's 186 average tops the Fulton Cotton Mills League at ABC. . . . Steve Caporale had a 621 set to become Man Bowler of Week at ABC, and Lillian Nix's 528 won the women's award. . . . ABC's Christmas Sock gimmick rewarded William Davis and Ed Rice with $100 savings bonds for seven strikes in a row.

PACERS WON OUT in Express Lanes' Muscular Dystrophy Tournament with 3,177. C. Fraemli's 606 series (159-253-194) paced the Pacers. Other team members were D. L. Jackson, B. J. Smith, Stain Label and W. Walls. Paul Brecht's 613 (198-191-224) led Medlock Gulf to second on 3,063. Express Lanes was third with 3,048, led by Blair Buellerman's 605 (188-204-213). . . . Here's wishing complete recovery to Trophies, Inc.'s Dave Tallaksen, one of bowling's finest boosters anywhere. He had a throat operation Monday. . . . Betty Gilham's 636 and Ken McHenry's 633 picked off prizes Sunday in Bowl-O-Matic's December Birthday Party. . . . And Broadview's Bowler's Club opens New Year's Eve. . . . Add to 500 Club in Women's Traveling League: Daisy Trout, 585; Doris Spencer, 565; Esther Cook, 558; Naomi Hamilton, 551; Jimmie Cantrell, 536; Betty Carter, 526; Purkey Masaka, 518; Nita Stephens, 514; Betsy Summers, 514, and Sue Roberson, 502.DUCKPINNING: Dick Nelson carved out a 192 game and a 453 series at Lucky Strike, former highest game of season. . . . Add to 400 Club Monday: M. D. Daniel, 430; Rollo Moore, 415; Bill Woods, 413, and Nelson, 406. . . . Jean Christian and Joe Poythress are making a habit of winning LS tournaments. For the second week in a row, they won Sunday with a 1,288. Week before they had won on 1,216.

Tech Loses Against Top-Ranked Teams

Louisville, Duke, Utah State, N.C.S. in Nation's Top 20

By AL THOMY

Lest there be a tendency to panic about Georgia Tech's four straight basketball defeats, chew on this social note:

All four losses have come at the hands of teams rated among the country's top 20 in both Associated Press and United Press International polls.

The AP rates them in this order: Louisville, fifth; Duke, seventh; N. C. State, 10th, and Utah State, honorable mention after the first 10.

UPI sees them this way: Louisville, ninth; Duke, 12th; N. C. State, 18th, and Utah State, 20th.

Coach Whack Hyder realized at the beginning of the season that he was starting three sophomores and facing what perhaps is the strongest Tech schedule of all time. The young players had to learn by playing and certainly they have had an opportunity to observe some of the finest talent in the country, even if it pained them on the scoreboard.

Georgia Tech remains a good basketball team, yea one with contender potential.

Auburn coach Joel Eaves, who scouted the Duke game here Monday night, was not ready to write off the Jackets.

"I thought the game was much closer than the score," he said. "It was very close until Duke broke it open in the last few minutes."

Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp has rated Tech in the upper division of the Southeastern Conference, and he has announced no change of mind.

"Georgia Tech is a good basketball team," said Duke coach Vic Bubas. "They will be even better when the others are ready to help Roger Kaiser with the scoring."

Of the four teams that have beaten the Jackets, Capt. Kaiser rates Louisville the strongest. He said so after the Duke game.

WHACK HYDER
Foes Are Top Drawer

"Duke is good—the best disciplined team I've seen this season—but I think Louisville could beat them," Roger said.

One heartening note in Tech's 3-4 record is that none of the defeats have Southeastern Conference bearing, and the experience might make the Jackets all that much tougher for the SEC campaign.

Hyder Tuesday released the Jackets for the holiday and left for Indiana to look over the field in a high school tournament. Tech regroups next week for the Gator Bowl tournament, which begins Dec. 29.

Sylvan, George Open Holiday Tournament

First round pairings were announced Tuesday for the third annual Holiday Basketball Tournament scheduled at the Russell High Gym Dec. 28-29-30.

Sylvan's defending State AAA champs open fire in the meet by opposing Walter George at 4:30 on the 28th.

Other opening day games send Marietta against Southwest at 6, Newman against College Park at 7:30 and Russell against Headland at 9.

Girls' play begins the second day with Russell meeting Headland at 4:30 and College Park battling Southwest at 6. Boys' semifinals are scheduled that night, and both championship games will be reeled off Dec. 30.

Therrell Falls in Game;
DeFore Scores 25 Points

By PAUL ATKINSON

Point-poppin' Sylvan High School dashed merrily to a bushel of baskets Tuesday night, demolishing fledgling Therrell, 116-35, in a 3-AAA West basketball game.

Records fell hither and yon as Ossie Wadewitz's Golden Bears hit on a whopping 49 field goals in only 78 attempts, a blistering 62 per cent.

It was the first time in City League history, according to City Schools Athletic Director Sid Scarborough, that a team had passed the century mark. Wadewitz didn't particularly pour it on Charlie Hipsher's young people—the baskets just fell that way. In fact, Wadewitz used his second team the whole second half.

And it was sophomore reserve Jerry Baker who got the field goal that put it at 100-31, with less than five minutes left in the game. Then the subs, Ronnie Dodson, Billy Seabrook, Bart Hickman and Charles Robinson, finished in a flourish of points, achieving a 33-point fourth quarter. Dodson popped in 14 points that period; Baker, 12; and Seabrook 5 of his 15.

Lee DeFore and his first string buddies, Tommy Roberts, Bobby

Tuggle, Virlyn Gaynes and Terry Stephens, exploded for 38 points in the second quarter. DeFore fired through 25 points; Roberts and Tuggle 10 apiece during their brief stints.

Jerry Hendrix hit 12 points for Therrell.

In the opener, the Sylvan girls won, 39-19.

Brown Survives Late Spurt, Nudges West Fulton, 66-65

Hulsey's 19
Not Enough

By ED DAVIS

Brown High's Rebels survived a late-game scare by West Fulton's Owls and held on to win a tense Western Division City League basketball game at the Owl gym Tuesday night, 66-65. In a sharp contrast, West Fulton won the girls' game in a complete rout, 32-10.

Individual scoring was almost as close as team scoring in the boys' game, all but one of the 10 starters scored 10 or more points. Owl Bobby Hulsey had 19 points and Reb center Dennis Gibson eight, but the other eight had no less than 10 and no more than the team-high 14 Reb forward Charles Casey posted.

After falling behind at the outset and trailing at the first quarter's end, 10-15, the visitors from West End staged a torrid 24-point second quarter to accumulate a lead they never relinquished.

The issue was far from settled at halftime, however, for the Owls rallied for 21 points in the third period and 20 more in the fourth, outscoring the Rebs by a wide margin in each period.

The Owls never led again, but they did knot the count at 63-63 with a climactic surge in the closing minutes. Two free throws by Gibson and one by Buddy King then gave the Rebs the three-point cushion they needed to make Hulsey's game-closing fielder a harmless one.

Brown (66)—Casey 14, Kenney 10, Gibson 8, B. King 16, K. King 14, Nesbitt 10, Douglas 10, Naylor 11, Hulsey 19.
West Fulton (65)—Edwards 12, Thomas 12, Douglas 10, Naylor 11, Hulsey 19.
Score at Half: Brown 35, West Fulton 24.

Southwest Hits George High, 63-44

Southwest High's Wolves profited from two-figure scoring by Doug Reynolds, Ricky Ricketts and Buddy Stovall to roll over George, 63-44, at the Southwest gym Tuesday night.

George also won the girls' game, 56-34, as the winners' Joannie Seigneuse scored 22 points and the losers' Ann Raulins 18.

Southwest (63)—Stovall 10, Reames 4, Hale 9, Ricketts 14, Reynolds 18, Robinson 7, Lewis 1, Cole, Preston, Newton, Gilmore, Roper.
George (44)—Cord 4, Eggs 4, Davis 11, Stephens 5, Lovvorn 3, Norton 11, Simpson.
Score at Half: Southwest 34, George 18.

Jarrett's 18 Leads Murphy Past Fulton

Murphy's Eagles, led by guard Roy Jarrett with 18 points, dumped the Fulton Redbirds, 52-44, Tuesday night.

Close all the way, Murphy led by only 23-19 at the half.

Bob Hume was high-point man for Fulton with 12 points.

Murphy (52)—Crook 8, Guthrie 11, Ard 4, Tala 7, Jarrett 18.
Fulton (44)—Hudson 11, Lasseter 9, Hume 12, Coker 1, Tiger 11.
Score at Half: Murphy 23, Fulton 19.

Smithies Outscore East Atlanta Five

Smith High's Smithies racked up their first region victory of the season Tuesday night as they set back East Atlanta's Wildcats, 34-21, on the Smithie court. Earlier the Wildcat lassies, spearheaded by Glenda Shields, who contributed 12 points, and Cathy Jaynes, with 10, defeated Smith's girls, 37-20.

East Atlanta (21)—Fincy 2, Redd 1, Crutcher 12, Harmon 2, Cochran 3, Haddon, Rumble, Donaldson, Tullis.
Smith (34)—Medley 15, Mullis, Hudson, Martin 9, Popham 4, Hawkins 2, Summer 2.
Score at Half: Smith 15, East Atlanta 11.

Bass Boys Beat Roosevelt, 56-44

Bass' Joey Monks and Roosevelt's Dave Brooks displayed nearly every shot in the book Tuesday night in fast-paced scoring duel which left Bass' warriors the 56-44 victors. The Warrior lassies defeated the Crimson Tide girls, 38-34.

Bass (56)—Monks 23, McGinnis, Cooper, J. L. Cooper, Joe Roper 4, Reed 12, Cook 3, Cochran.
Roosevelt (44)—Gaddy 8, Tankersley, Brooks 26, Sander 3, Talbert 4, Shropshire, Beauchamp, Fields, Chance 4, Collier.
Score at Half: Roosevelt (23), Bass (20).

Druid Hills Rips Stone Mt.

Druid Hills ran its undefeated string to six games Tuesday afternoon, cutting down Stone Mountain, 63-43, behind the scoring proficiency of Jack Manton and Edwin Horne.

Manton had 18 points, Horne 17, and Wes Fields added 11. Phil

Miami May Get Third Floyd-Ingo Bout

NEW YORK (UPI)—Promoter Bill Fugazy said Tuesday night the third Floyd Patterson-Ingo heavyweights title fight may be staged at the Miami, Fla., Orange Bowl on March 13 if the two fighters make certain concessions to Feature Sports, Inc.

Fugazy made that statement at International Airport before flying to Göteborg, Sweden for a conference with Johansson there Wednesday.

However, young Bill—president of Feature Sports—stressed that until the concessions are obtained, two other sites are still under consideration, Madison Square Garden on March 23 and the Los Angeles Coliseum on April 3.

Fugazy said Patterson and manager Gus D'Amato want to fight in Miami. When Bill has lunch with Johansson Wednesday in Göteborg, he will find out if the Miami date and site are okay with challenger Ingemar and what concessions he will make on terms.

The promoter explained that Feature Sports preferred, under current financial arrangements, to stage the bout where it would draw the largest "live" gate—at Los Angeles or in Madison Square Garden.

Johansson will try to win back the title which Patterson recaptured from him in their second fight last June 20 at the Polo Grounds in New York.

Irregular Market Lists Some Gainers

NEW YORK (AP)—Aluminums and utilities made some gains but the over-all market continued to wander in a bit on the downside.

The market was mixed all day but showed a trend toward improvement in the final minutes when the ticker tape ran late in a pickup of trading.

Aluminums responded a bit to a statement by Lawrence Litchfield Jr., president of Alcoa, who said aluminum use is expected to continue at "near record" levels in 1961 and that higher prices are possible.

The trend again was obscured by year-end transactions for tax purposes or to shape up the appearance of large investment portfolios. Some large blocks were traded, apparently for the latter purpose. United Corp. took honors in this respect with a block of 60,000 shares traded at 7 1/2, off 1/4.

Utilities gained on balance. Copper, rails and electrical equipments declined. Steels, autos, aircrafts, electronics and oils were mixed.

North American Aviation gained 1 3/4, apparently in response to an article in a national magazine about its part in the program for the B70 supersonic bomber.

Lockheed, which in a published report, was said to have received a contract from Germany for jet fighter planes, was up 1/2, trimming an earlier rise.

Transit was down 1 after calling off a preliminary merger agreement with Thermo King Corp.

American Stock Exchange prices also were mixed.

Beans Near Year's Peak

CHICAGO (AP)—Trade in grain futures was limited mainly to the expiring December contracts, where evening up transactions became brisk during the final few minutes of dealings.

Prices were mostly higher, with soybeans leading the advances on gains of a cent or more a bushel, which boosted all deliveries within three cents of their season highs.

All Cotton Goes Down

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton futures closed 15 to 50 cents a bale lower.

Current crop months advanced in early dealings on trade and local buying. Rallying tendencies were reversed toward the close as hedging and liquidation increased.

New crop months declined for the second consecutive day on commission house selling, following their recent rise on prospects of a higher government loan for the 1961 crop.

The Census Bureau reported ginning from the 1960 cotton crop through Dec. 12 totaled 13,339,873 running bales. The Department of Agriculture, in its December forecast, placed the 1960 crop at the equivalent of 14,270,000 running bales.

Christmas Glows With Traditions

By PATRICIA DEATON
Constitution Food Editor

When the warm and glowing Christmas fires begin to dance upon the window panes and carol-singing with bells in the background is heard throughout the city, then Christmas is in the air.

One of the most heart-warming thoughts of Christmas is the gathering of friends and family around a fireplace. These traditions are as important as the traditional dishes that are served to friends, family or carolers.

The Christmas fire is an idea that started many years ago when fire was a source of light as well as heat. Then, a large log was required to keep the "vigil" of Christmas . . . family and friends waited in front of the fire until midnight, then attended a church service.

This idea spirited the tradition of the Yule log in Scotland and England. In Scotland, the Yule was traditionally of birch. It was brought in by the family, the eldest carrying the cut end, the youngest at the top of the log.

In England, however, the Yule log was of oak and was cut at midnight, then dragged into the house for the Christmas fire.

Although the families of this country do not practice the Yule tradition, the closest identity to it is keeping the trunk of the Christmas tree from one year to start the Christmas fire the next. You'll have to agree, it's a delightful idea, but it is doubtful that this tradition is generally practiced.

Whether or not you intend to keep the traditional lighting of a fire at Christmastime, you'll be celebrating with some of the traditional dishes served at this season of the year.

In an elegant glass punch bowl you can serve Syllabub, a thin custard-like dessert that is made with pudding and pie filling mix, very much like eggnog.

After the dessert is prepared it can be stored in the refrigerator for several days. At serving time, top it generously with dessert topping made from a mix that doesn't break down or melt when allowed to stand for long periods of time on a buffet table. Sprinkle nutmeg generously over the soft clouds of dessert topping.

- | | |
|------------------------|-------------------------|
| 1 pkg. vanilla pudding | 1 1/2 tsps. vanilla |
| and pie filling mix | 1 envelope dessert |
| 1/2 cup sugar | topping mix |
| 1 qt. milk | 1/2 cup cold milk |
| 3 egg yolks, slightly | 1/4 cup peach brandy or |
| beaten | nutmeg |
| 3 egg whites | |

Mix pudding, sugar and 1/4 cup of the milk in a 2-quart saucepan. Add slightly beaten egg yolks and blend well. Then add remaining milk; mix well. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a full boil—about 10 to 12 minutes. Cool. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks will form and fold into cooled mixture. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and chill several hours. Just before serving, prepare dessert topping mix with milk and remaining 1/2 teaspoon vanilla as directed on package; then add brandy to custard mixture and top with the dessert topping. Sprinkle lightly with nutmeg. Serve as beverage. Makes seven cups.

A perfect finishing touch for that heavy holiday meal is this delightful Heavenly Cranberry Pie, a new direction for the traditional berry.

HEAVENLY CRANBERRY PIE

- | | |
|--------------------------|-----------------------|
| 1 regular size pkg. (3 | 1 envelope dessert |
| ozs.) lemon-flavored | topping mix |
| gelatin | 1/2 cup cold milk |
| 1 cup boiling water | 1/2 tsp. vanilla |
| 2 cups fresh cranberries | 1 baked 8-inch crumb |
| 1/2 cup water | crust or pastry shell |
| 1/2 to 3/4 cups sugar | |

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Combine cranberries and 1/2 cup water and bring to a boil; cook until skins of cranberries burst. Add sugar and cook 3 to 5 minutes over low heat. Drain cranberries, reserving juice. Stir cranberry juice into gelatin mixture and chill. Prepare dessert topping with milk and vanilla as directed on package. Fold cranberries into slightly thickened gelatin; then fold in dessert topping. Chill again until mixture mounds. Pour into crumb crust. Refrigerate. Makes six to eight servings.

This Fluffy Hard Sauce is perfect on a steamed pudding and can be made well in advance and stored in the refrigerator.

- | | |
|----------------------|-------------------------|
| 1 envelope dessert | 3 cups sifted confec- |
| topping mix | tioners' sugar |
| 1/2 cup cold milk | 2 tbsps. melted butter, |
| 1 tsp. vanilla | cooled |
| 1/2 tsp. rum extract | |

Combine all ingredients in a small bowl. Beat at highest speed of electric mixer, or until mixture is thick and well blended. Chill 30 minutes. Stir to blend and serve on mincemeat pie, plum pudding or apple turnovers. Makes 2 cups sauce.

The small glasses in front of the pudding are "neighbor" gifts. Make an extra recipe of the Fluffy Hard Sauce and put it into attractive glasses, wrapping each with transparent saran.

These can then be stored in the refrigerator until you go visiting. A tiny Christmas decoration, tied on with a colorful bow, makes the remembrance a delightful "little gift."

Trim the Tree With a Holiday Spirit

Trim the Christmas tree to reflect the shining spirit of the season and trim the table to match.

Gather your friends about you to join the fun of a tree trimming party. You can serve them a holiday drink, into which goes the brightness of the season, the high spirits and laughter and good will toward all.

Serve popcorn balls and fruit cake on a large round plate and have plenty of rectangular trays just large enough for the fruit cake, a cup of Apple Juice Nog and a napkin lit up with a tiny ornament.

For a centerpiece, make a Jack Horner box by stapling together five snack trays to make a box. Paste Santa cutouts on the four sides to turn it into a Christmas box. Paste a ruffle of red or green flame-proof crepe paper around the inside top edge, fluting it as you go along, and you're all set with a Christmas grab bag.

Fill the grab bag with little gifts—the emphasis here should be on colorful packaging and you can play the gifts for laughs.

For a delightful beverage, serve a creamy dream of a drink but one that offers, too, the lively tang of apple juice, the friendly spiciness of nutmeg. Ladle apple juice nog whipped and foamy into cups.

APPLE JUICE NOG

- | | |
|---------------------|----------------|
| 4 eggs, separated | chilled |
| 4 tbsps. sugar | Dash of nutmeg |
| 4 cups apple juice, | |

Beat egg whites until stiff; gradually add sugar, beating constantly. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored; fold into egg whites. Gradually add apple juice, mixing constantly. Serve in punch cups. Sprinkle each with nutmeg. Makes 10 servings.

These individual fruit cakes fit in perfectly. Here's a fruit cake recipe you'll want to use to make Christmas gifts for specially honored friends.

Set aside a batch of batter and fill 1 1/4-inch paper baking cups, placing them in small muffin tins. Bake them at the same temperature as the fruit cake loaves, about 325 degrees F. but instead of baking them the usual hour and a half, remove them from the oven after 30 to 35 minutes.

- | | |
|-------------------------------|----------------------|
| 1 cup chopped nuts | 1/2 tsp. soda |
| 2 1/2 cups raisins | 1 tsp. cinnamon |
| 1 cup currants | 1/2 tsp. allspice |
| 1 cup finely cut pitted | 1/2 tsp. cloves |
| dates | 1/2 tsp. mace |
| 1 jar (8 ozs.) diced | 1/2 cup shortening |
| mixed candied fruit | 1/2 cup sugar |
| 1 tbsps. grated orange | 4 eggs |
| rind | 3/4 cup unsulphured |
| 2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose | molasses |
| flour | 1/2 cup orange juice |
| 3/4 tsp. salt | |

Combine nuts and fruits in a bowl. Sift together dry ingredients; mix 1/2 cup with fruit-nut mixture. Cream shortening with sugar. Beat in eggs one at a time. Combine unsulphured molasses and orange juice; add alternately with remaining flour mixture to creamed shortening. Fold in prepared fruits and nuts. Turn into 2 greased and waxed paper lined 6x3x2-inch loaf pans, or one 6x3x2-inch loaf pan and 3 dozen 1 1/4-inch paper baking cups, placed in small muffin pans. Bake in a slow oven of 325 degrees F. of 1 hour and 35 minutes for the loaves, and 30 to 35 minutes for the cupcakes. Remove from the oven and brush with glaze. Decorate with Brazil nut chips, candied cherries and angelica. Yields 4 pounds fruit cake.

Glaze the delicious cake with a brown sugar glaze.

- | | |
|--------------------------|----------------------|
| 1/2 cup light corn syrup | 2 tbsps. brown sugar |
| 4 tbsps. orange juice | |

Combine ingredients in a saucepan. Stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved; bring to a full boil. Remove from heat. Brush on fruit cakes and decorate with candied fruit.

For another delightful treat that makes a tree trimming party complete, popcorn balls are perfect. When wrapped and tied with red ribbon they make gay ornaments for the tree. They may be taken off, one by one, as little gifts for children who make you a holiday call.

POPCORN BALLS

- | | |
|-------------------------|--------------------------|
| 12 cups popped popcorn | milk |
| (about 1 cup un- | 1/2 cup light corn syrup |
| popped) | 1/4 cup molasses |
| 1 1/2 cups (15-oz. can) | 1/4 tsp. salt |
| sweetened condensed | |

Put popcorn into large buttered bowl. Combine remaining ingredients in heavy shallow saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture reaches 240 degrees F. on candy thermometer or until a little mixture dropped into cold water forms soft ball, about 35 minutes. Pour over popcorn immediately; mix quickly with 2 forks. Let stand only until cool enough to handle. Press into balls using hands. Wrap each ball in waxed paper; twist ends of paper.

Her Vegetable Casserole Wins Prizes

Since it is impossible for me to test each of the recipes, I assume that you have already tested them in your kitchens. If there are any recipes that you want or have, don't hesitate to write.

PATRICIA DEATON

Constitution Food Editor

I WON A PRIZE WITH THIS RECIPE AND it is one that homemakers will enjoy trying.

BAKED VEGETABLES

3 cups small peas, drained
1 cup carrots, shredded
1 cup celery, cut fine
1 small onion, cut fine
1 cup bread crumbs
2 eggs

3 tbsps. flour
2 1/2 cups sweet milk
2 cups cheese, shredded
Salt and pepper to taste
5 tbsps. melted butter or margarine

Toast bread and roll into crumbs. Make a sauce with eggs, milk, flour, salt and pepper. Mix vegetables well. Make a layer of vegetables and then crumbs, followed by sauce and cheese. Repeat until all is used. Place hot melted butter on top and sprinkle with handful of corn flakes. Bake 30 to 40 minutes in a preheated oven at 375 degrees and serve hot. Serves 8 to 10 people.

If you are preparing the dish for only two people, cut the recipe in half. The dish is just as delicious when warmed over.

MISS F. P. B.

Atlanta, Ga.

FOR MANY YEARS THE FOLLOWING recipe for Lane Cake has been a favorite with my family. I hope Mrs. W. E. Riley enjoys the delightful treat.

LANE CAKE

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
3 1/4 cups cake flour

3 1/2 tps. baking powder
3/4 tsp. salt
1 cup milk
8 egg whites

Cream butter well; add sugar gradually, beating until light and fluffy. Add vanilla. Sift dry ingredients alternately with milk, beating until smooth. Beat egg whites until stiff and frothy but not dry. Fold into the batter and pour into four 9-inch layer pans, lined with wax paper and greased. Bake in moderate oven of 350 degrees for 18 minutes. Turn out on rack to cool and spread frosting between layers and on top.

LANE FROSTING

8 egg yolks
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup coconut, shredded
1/2 cup butter
1 cup pecans, chopped

1 cup raisins, chopped
1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup candied cherries, finely cut
1 cup Bourbon or Rye

MRS. ERNEST COCHRAN

Shiloh, Ga.

IN REPLY TO MRS. JAMES LOTT'S request, I am sending the following recipe.

WATERMELON RIND PRESERVES

1 lb. watermelon
2 qts. water
1 lb. sugar

1/2 lemon, sliced thinly
Ginger root

Use only white from rind. Cut into 1-inch pieces. Soak for 3 1/2 hours in lime water containing 1/5 ounce of lime to 1 quart of water. Drain and place in clear water for 1 hour. Drain and boil for 1 1/2 hours in fresh water. Drain. Make a syrup of sugar and 2 quarts of water. Drop watermelon rind and ginger root into boiling syrup. Boil for 1 hour. As syrup thickens, add lemon. When the mixture is somewhat thick, pack into jars and add syrup to cover.

Apples and Leftovers Pair Nicely

Though there are many suggestions for using leftovers, every once in a while you find a recipe that you think is very special.

It's the kind that makes leftovers good enough to serve to company, and today's Apple-Turkey Divan is just that. Economical and elegant, it's also easily assembled prior to cooking time, which is a boon to any hostess.

This is a twice-timely post-holiday recipe, too, as it takes advantage of the fine Washington State apples available. Though not as large in size as those of prior seasons, their flavor and condition this year is unsurpassed.

APPLE-TURKEY DIVAN

licious apples, peeled, cored, thinly sliced

Either of these sauces:

SHERRY CREAM SAUCE

2 tbsps. butter
2 tbsps. flour
1 cup cream
1/2 tsp salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
2 tbsps. sherry
3/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Melt butter, stir in flour; gradually stir in cream and cook until mixture thickens. Add salt, pepper and sherry, blending well.

SPICY SOUR CREAM POUND CAKE AND BROWNED ICING
Store a Loaf in Your Freezer to Serve During Exciting Holiday Social Whirl

Pounds of Ingredients Give Old-Fashioned Cake, Name

Know how the pound cake got its name? Probably because the chief ingredients weighed one pound each: 1 pound freshly churned butter, 1 pound cake flour were blended with 1 pound sugar and 1 pound eggs and a dash of seasonings into a batter that was then turned into a well-buttered pan and baked until golden.

Spicy Sour Cream Pound Cake is every bite as sumptuous as the old-fashioned kind, though the ingredients are in slightly different proportions. There's sour cream to make it more tender and rich—cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg to add more spice.

Mixing is still important to the texture and crumb of a good pound cake. In this recipe the batter is beaten 1 minute by an electric mixer at medium speed or 150 strokes by hand after the addition of each egg and again at the last step for extra good measure.

Though pound cake is often served without embellishment, this spicy loaf couples well with Browned Butter Icing. Lightly browning the butter brings out that special flavor of this wonderful dairy food, making an icing that can't be duplicated.

Spicy Sour Cream Pound Cake can be made and frozen ahead, tasting every bit as good as the day it was baked. For butter which is always associated with top-quality baked products keeps this cake fresh and flavorful until needed.

SPICY SOUR CREAM POUND CAKE

3/4 cup (1 stick) butter
1 cup sugar
3 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
1 3/4 cups sifted cake flour
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. cloves
2 tps. cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
3/4 cup dairy sour cream

Butter and flour cake pan; set aside. Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs one at a time, beating 1 minute after each addition using electric mixer at medium speed (150 strokes by hand). Blend in vanilla. Sift together, baking soda, salt, cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg; add to creamed mixture alternately with sour cream, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Beat 1 minute more using electric mixer at medium speed (150 strokes by hand). Pour into prepared pan; bake 60-70 minutes. Cool 10 minutes; remove to cake rack. Frost top and sides of cake with Browned Butter Icing. Bake in a 9 1/2 x 5 1/2 x 2 1/2-inch pan at 350 degrees F. Ten to 12 servings.

BROWNED BUTTER ICING

1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter
2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
2 tbsps. milk

In small saucepan brown butter lightly over low heat, stirring constantly. Pour into mixing bowl. Add sugar and milk; beat until smooth. Spread on top and sides of pound cake.

Hot Soup Is Quick and Easy

For a quick hot soup, simmer some instant minced onion in canned consommé. Add a peeled, diced tomato just before serving and top each bowl with grated Parmesan cheese.

Confections Keep Pace With Times

Candy has long been lauded at Christmastime, especially those delectable homemade delicacies.

Fortunately, candy-making methods have kept pace with the times, and today "old-fashioned" confections can be fitted into the "quick and easy" trend. By using the evaporated milk method, only five minutes cooking time is needed to make fudge.

The fudge is always creamy and smooth textured, thanks to the blending qualities of this concentrated form of milk.

On hectic days preceding Christmas, serve a plateful of fudge or nut clusters for desserts; package some pieces attractively for those almost-forgotten gifts remembered at the last minute; of course, keep plenty on hand to pass to visitors.

COCONUT-HONEY FUDGE

2 tbsps. honey
1 1/2 cups shredded coconut
2/3 cup (small can) undiluted evaporated milk
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
1 1/2 cups (16 medium) diced marshmallows
1 1/2 cups (1 1/2 6-oz. pkgs.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 tsp. vanilla

Combine honey and 1 cup coconut; blend. Spread on bottom of buttered 8-inch square pan. Mix evaporated milk, sugar and salt in saucepan over low heat. Heat to boiling, then cook 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add marshmallows, chocolate pieces and vanilla. Stir 12 minutes (until marshmallows melt). Pour into pan over coconut mixture. Sprinkle with remaining 1/2 cup coconut. Makes about 2 pounds.

the extra nourishing goodness of new Parkay!

Norman
Rockwell

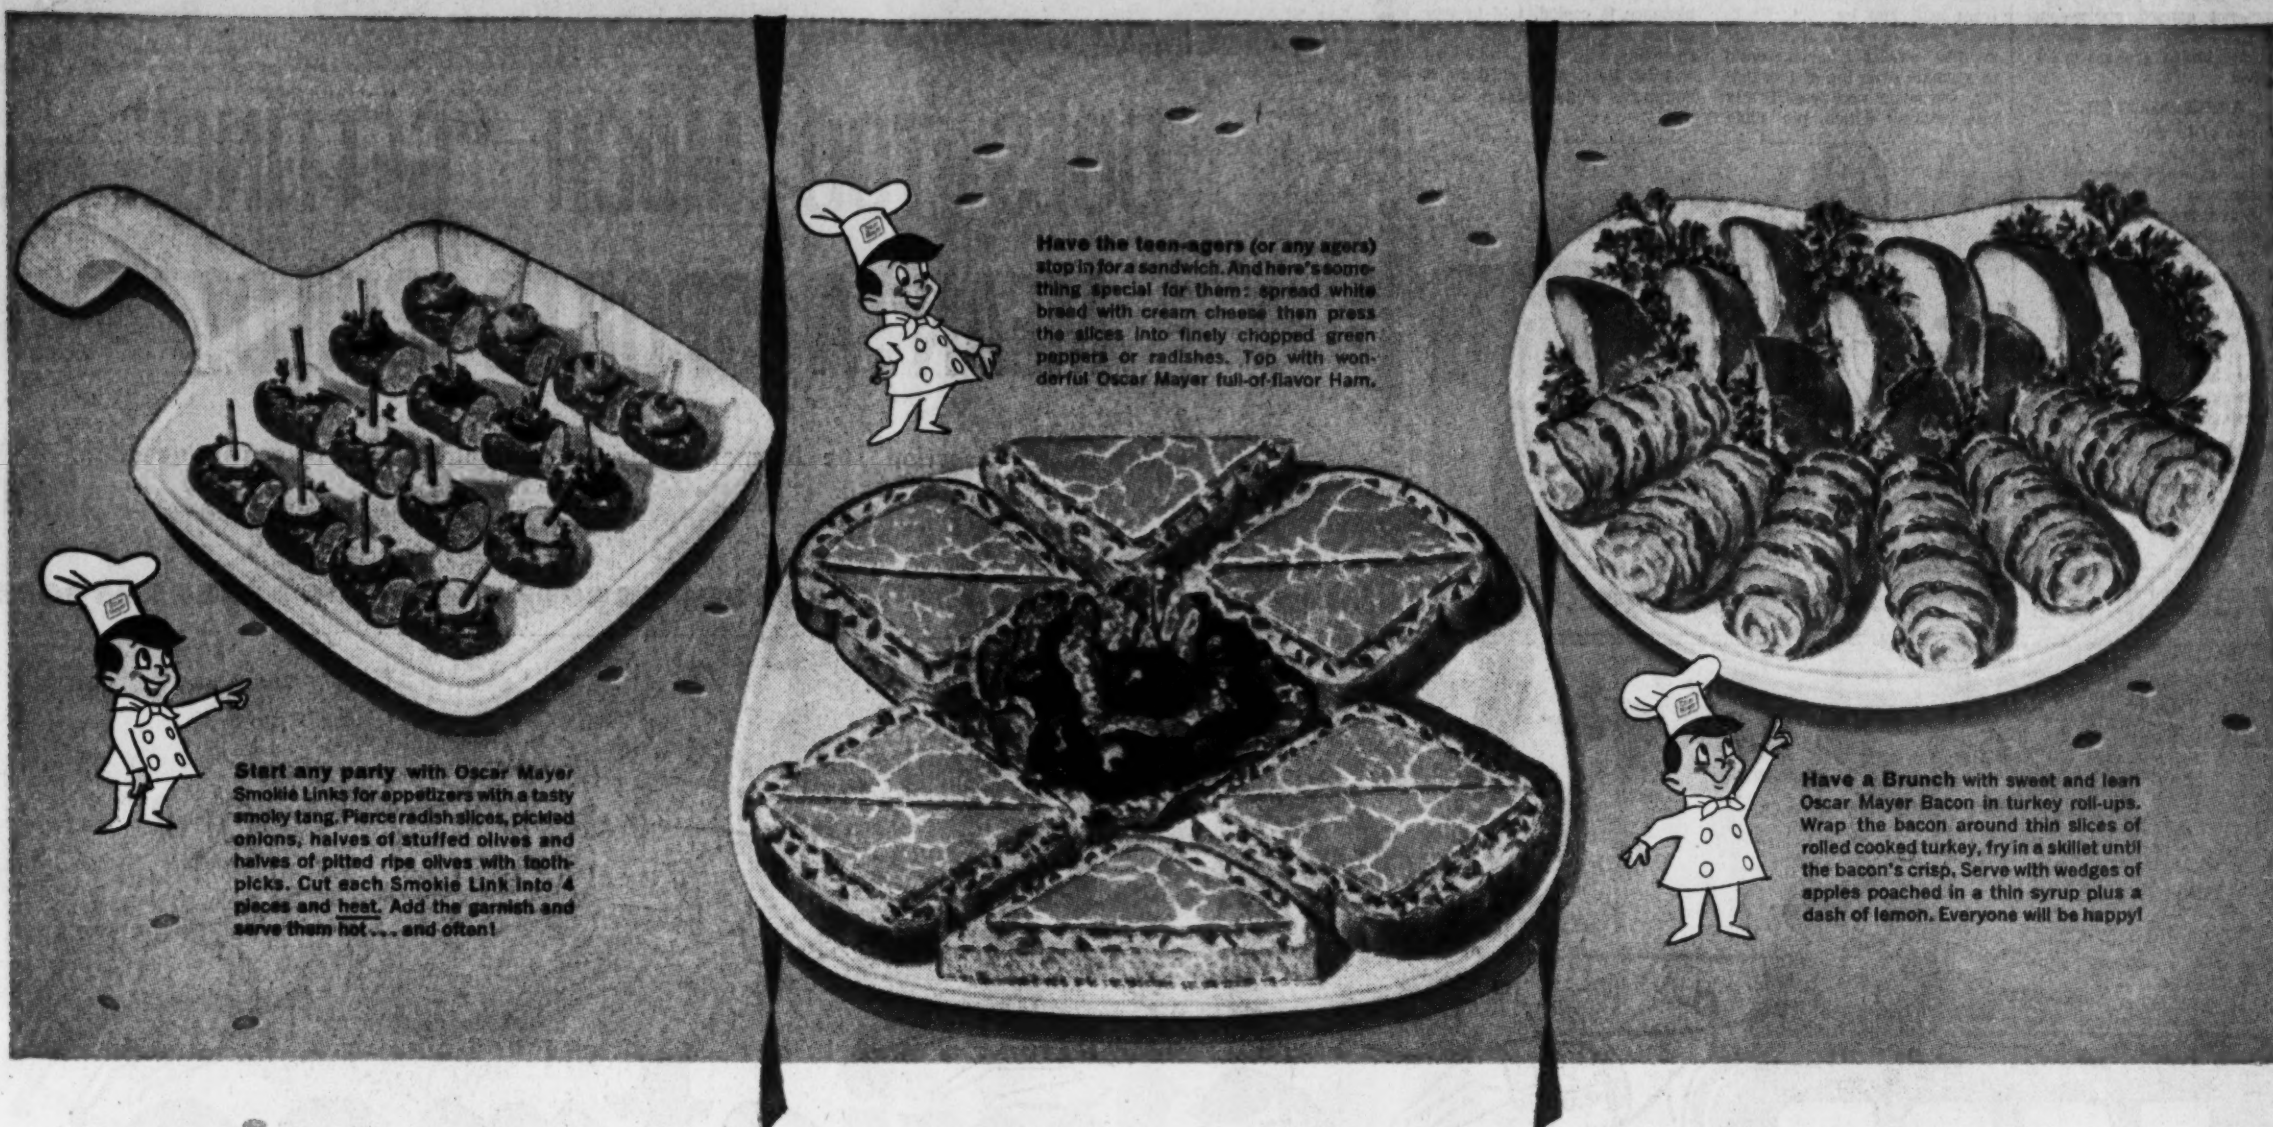

Is it proper for a young lady to stick out her tongue like this? Absolutely. For the goodness in even that drop of new Parkay Margarine is much too good to lose. It's a sweet, delicate taste that comes from a new Kraft flavor ingredient.

It gives Parkay a natural goodness no other margarine has. And no other leading spread provides such extra nourishment either. In fact, new Parkay contains more Vitamin A, more Vitamin D, more protein and more calcium, than any other leading spread. New Parkay even contains important polyunsaturated liquid vegetable oils.

Who but Kraft could deliver so much extra nourishing goodness at no extra cost! Get this goodness soon.

Look at all the ways OSCAR MAYER helps you be a happy holiday hostess

Have a Holiday Buffet with a picture-pretty platter of Oscar Mayer Cold Cuts. Put rings of green pepper with Oscar Mayer Liver Cheese, onion slices with the Luncheon Meat, pickle strips with Bologna, Roll Pickle and Pimiento Loaf slices with American cheese. Serve Summer Sausage and Sliced Cooked Ham, too. Relish and mustard are in hollow pepper and tomato halves.

Here's a whole pageful of party ideas—for all the family and all for fun. And all the ideas show you new ways and good ways to serve those famous Oscar Mayer meats. Really, these tasty meats are party treats just as they come from the packages...but isn't it fun (and easy) to give them an added holiday touch? That's what makes a hostess famous! That and the fine quality of Oscar Mayer meats. Happy holidays!

Shopping list: Oscar Mayer (because you want the best, of course!) Liver Cheese, Luncheon Meat, Sliced Cooked Ham, Bologna, Pickle and Pimiento Loaf, Summer Sausage, Smokie Links... and Oscar Mayer Bacon. Get plenty.

Applesauce Pie Adds Spice to Life

Ever make a pie of applesauce—not canned apples—just nice thick strained applesauce. This one has a graham cracker crust.

APPLESAUCE PIE

- 1 can (1 lb. 1 oz.) applesauce
- 3 tbsps. lemon juice
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 3 tbsps. cream of rice (quick-cooking rice cereal)
- 2 tbsps. butter
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 tsp. ground nutmeg
- 1 1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 tbsps. granulated sugar
- 1 cup sour cream (1/2 pint)

Combine applesauce, lemon juice, and salt in top of double boiler, and bring mixture to a boil. Sprinkle cereal over mixture and continue to boil, stirring constantly, for 5 minutes. Stir in 2 tablespoons butter, brown sugar, and nutmeg, and cover. Let stand over the hot water for 5 minutes. Remove from heat and let cool. Meanwhile mix graham cracker crumbs, saving 1 tablespoonful to sprinkle over top of pie, butter, and sugar and press firmly into buttered 9-inch pie plate and chill until firm. When applesauce is cooled, fold in sour cream and pour into pie shell, sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Refrigerate until pie is thoroughly chilled. Makes 9-inch pie.

As I See It

Como Show Tonight
May Be Yule's Best

By PAUL JONES

Perry Como's annual Christmas party Wednesday night might not be the most original on television—but it likely will be one of the most delightful of the Yuletide season.

Each year Perry and members of his staff and their children get together for an on-the-air party which usually starts with Perry telling the story of the Nativity to the youngsters.

Guests sing traditional Christmas songs and Perry closes with "Ave Maria."

But that is not all. During the Wednesday colorcast, Perry will feature Ginny Tiu, the 7-year-old piano-playing whiz, who was discovered playing the piano expertly in her father's Hong Kong hotel two years ago. She was immediately signed for Perry's Christmas presentation. She will play "Warsaw Concerto," and lure Perry into a piano duet.

Como has another surprise for viewers.

Virginia Douglas, who, when she was a child of 8, asked the question which resulted in the most famous editorial in journalism—"Yes, Virginia, There Is a Santa Claus," will appear on the show. Mrs. Douglas, who was Virginia O'Hanlon when she wrote the appealing letter to the New York Sun in 1897, will read the editorial answer to her query. The answer was prepared by Francis Pharcellus Church.

Peter Gennaro, who conceives most of the interesting choreography, has worked out some special Christmas dance numbers and the scenic designers have been busy creating some picturesque backdrops for the show.

THE SOUNDS OF Christmas are to be found almost everywhere on TV and radio but here are some specific sounds you might want to hear Wednesday:

During Carnival in Stereo, on WSB-Radio at 7:45 p.m., Jim Horne will feature "A Winter Wonderland of Music," as a sort of frigid salute to the first day of winter.

At 11:35 p.m., on WSB's Nightbeat, Jim Axel will present "Cool Music to Welcome Winter."

And at 12:15 p.m., WSB-Radio presents a choral program with the Rutgers University Choir singing "Voices of Christmas."

TWO OTHER traditional Christmas programs which have become favorites are Gian Carlo Menotti's Christmas opera, "Amahl and the Night Visitors," which will be repeated on Christmas Day and the Dinah Shore Yule program which this Christmas will feature 50 of Japan's foremost entertainers.

The Menotti opera which tells of a crippled boy and his mother, who are visited by the Three Kings on their way to Bethlehem, was commissioned by NBC and was given its world premiere showing on Christmas Day 1951. The Sunday presentation will be the 11th. One season it was given on Easter.

All of the cast except Kirk Jordan have appeared in each of the presentations. Jordan has appeared on four occasions.

Dinah's program will have a unique twist.

Just as she finishes picking up the last Yuletide wrapping from her living room floor, the 50 Japanese performers burst in for a Christmas night visit.

After presenting a variety of songs and dances, the entire visiting delegation will sing "Sayonara," and Dinah, alone again, sings a Christmas ballad.

She then returns to the tidying up task she had started an hour before.

The End of a Quest

The Three Wise Men realize there is need to go no farther because the Crucifixion has taken place, on "The Other Wise Man," the Christmas presentation of the General Electric Theater scheduled Sunday at 9 p.m. on Channel 5. Francis X. Bushman is the Wise Man at left. Harry Townes and Justin Smith, right, are the others.

300 Works of the Great Masters
To Bring Christ's Story to Life

By THE TV SCOUT

BEST BET—Project 20's staff has been working for a year on Wednesday's beautiful special, "The Coming of Christ."

This is done with the same technique they used for the Lincoln show. Still photographs and paintings tell the story. In this case, of course, it is almost exclusively paintings, with only a few recent photographs of the Holy Land at the beginning to set the scene.

The program covers Christ's life from His birth through the Sermon on the Mount, thus covering His ministry, and it was this portion that caused the most problems for the researchers—the great painters seldom devoted their talents to this phase of His life. Daniel Jones, chief researcher, says they found most of the material for this part in old illuminated prayer books in Paris' Bibliotheque Nationale. During other portions, you'll see works of most of the great masters—300 are shown in all—although in many of them only bits of the paintings are shown.

"Our aim," says Jones, "was to search for particulars and right. The story was originally written for the series two years ago, but Bond managed to put it off for two seasons. It concerns a young minister (Robert Vaughn) who is one of those idealists who can see no evil in anyone. He attempts to rehabilitate a bad man and even after the villain makes a pass at his wife, he still goes along with him. Vaughn is good in the role, but the role itself is unbelievable.

7:30-8:30 (Ch. 11)—A reasonable mystery and an exotic setting continue to make Hong Kong one of the best of this season's new offerings.

There is a new restaurant used as headquarters—Jack Kruschen's departure made this obligatory—and it's a beauty. The Golden Dragon, presided over by Mai Tai Sing as Ching Mei, has a dragon-shaped bar. The story has a respected American diplomat arriving unannounced to search for his late son's fiancée.

The plot thickens and thickens and then thickens some more. The character of the missing girl, as reported to Rod Taylor, is either very good or very bad, depending on his informant, and this makes the story intriguing.

7:30-8:30 (Ch. 2)—Wagon Train has a weak effort and the late Ward Bond didn't want to do it. He was right. The story was originally written for the series two years ago, but Bond managed to put it off for two seasons. It concerns a young minister (Robert Vaughn) who is one of those idealists who can see no evil in anyone. He attempts to rehabilitate a bad man and even after the villain makes a pass at his wife, he still goes along with him. Vaughn is good in the role, but the role itself is unbelievable.

9-10 (Ch. 11)—A new hand joins the Hawaiian Eye firm, with Grant Williams appearing as a San Franciscan brought over for a specific job.

The producers took the precaution of adding another permanent member to the show because of Robert Conrad's continuing feud with the studio. Williams' first assignment is to play a patsy, and let a con artist and his beautiful skill play him for a sucker. It makes a good, serviceable but familiar story.

Williams, incidentally, is carrying on an off-screen romance with Connie Stevens, who sings "Return to Paradise" in this episode.

19TH CHRISTMAS ABROAD

Bob Hope to Entertain
Caribbean GIs at Yule

Special to The Constitution

HOLLYWOOD—Bob Hope will entertain U.S. servicemen in the Caribbean over the Christmas holidays, marking his 19th Christmas away from home to entertain military personnel and his ninth Yuletide tour of American overseas bases.

Joining Hope for the 10-day trip covering 12 military bases will be top Hollywood and entertainment world personalities including Zsa Zsa Gabor, Andy Williams, Janis Paige, Jerry Colonna, Anita Bryant, Peter Leeds, and Les Brown and his band.

On Christmas Day the Hope troupe will be entertaining Navy and Marine personnel stationed at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. The most distant base from continental U.S. to be visited will be Fort Koebe on the Pacific side of Panama Canal Zone, and the nearest will be at Eleuthera, a tracking station along the guided missile testing route.

In addition to spreading Christmas cheer to GIs away from home, Hope will film portions of his next show, scheduled to be broadcast on the NBC-TV network, Wednesday, Jan. 11.

Singers Joni James, Adam Wade, and Kathy Young and The Innocents will be special guests on NBC-TV's Christmas Eve presentation of Saturday Prom.

Miss James will sing "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas" and "My Last Date." Adam Wade will sing "Dreamy" and "Just in Time." Kathy Young and The Innocents will sing "One Thousand Stars," after which The Innocents alone will sing their recording hit "Gee Whizz."

Academy award-winner Gloria Grahame makes her television dramatic debut and comedian Dick Shawn costars in the romantic comedy, "Don't Let It Throw You" on the General Electric Theater Sunday, Jan. 1, CBS-TV.

"You can't teach an old dog new tricks" is one saying the Georgia Center for Continuing Education doesn't believe. They feel that learning has no age limit and they've set out to prove it by providing education to those who already have diplomas as well as those who never underwent formal schooling. Frank Wells of The Constitution tells how they do it as he explores the University of Georgia facility.

Cough All Night?

NEW medicine acts on cough control center

That's the spot where coughing is controlled (not in the throat). Thorexin soothes your throat, then speeds relief right to the cough control center... to prevent excessive coughing for hours! And Thorexin works safely—without narcotics. Thorexin!

PROJECT 20 PRESENTS

"THE COMING OF CHRIST"

The story of the Messiah from the early prophecies to the Sermon on the Mount—told through the world's greatest religious paintings.
